Fierce Finn-German Assault Is Reported Stopped in North

Violent Artillery Action Attends Finland's Entry in Fight; Hitler Says 4,107 Soviet Planes Destroyed.

Germany's mechanized troops, stabbing through the Minsk area toward the Minsk-Moscow motor road, went beyond the capital of White Russia yesterday, but Moscow reported the advanced units had been cut off in the vital district.

As the second week of the Russo-German war started, Finnish artillery opened a violent barrage along the 600-mile northern frontier, but here again Russia denied that the Nazi forces had scored a success, asserting that combined Germans-Finns had been repulsed with heavy losses.

In the war of words which has accompanied the fierce fighting, Adolf Hitler appeared to have won an advantage yesterday, reporting among other things the destruction of 4,107 Russian planes and 3,500 motorized ground units.

Moscow Denies Germans Say Successes Vast Berlin Claims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Russia announced the Red army had thrust back Finland's first step into active warfare yesterday and had checked and cut off German panzer divisions which pierced the defenses in the vital Minsk sector — gateway to Moscow.

The Finnish attack, begun along the 600-mile frontier with an artillery duel early yesterday, was thrown back with hundreds of German and Finnish dead, the Russians said.

A Finnish spokesman had announced that Finland took the initiative after Field Marshal Mannerheim's order of the day for a "holy war" against the Russians.

Helsinki heard the rumble of guns all day and fighter planes patrolled the sky constantly.

Forced To Retire. The Finns, said the Russians, were forced to retire behind their own fortifications.

German panzer units burst through Russian defenses to dash beyond Minsk, capital of White Russia, and reach the road to Moscow—450 miles away—according to DNB, official German news agency. But the Russians said the Nazis were checked by Russian land forces and air-planes.

Advance motorized units have been cut off by the Red soldiers and "are under the ceaseless bombardment and machinegunning of our air force."

The Russians admitted an important retreat was on in Lithuania, where their troops were reported to have beaten off panzer attacks on the rear and flank of the soldiers falling back on the Dvinsk-Vilna line.

DNB said the Russians were fleeing in the Baltic and there was no front in that sector.

Luck Battle Rages.

Great masses of mechanized troops continued to battle south in the Luck area where the Russians said Germans had sent reinforcements of fresh tank units without success.

BERLIN, June 29.—(AP)—The German high command asserted today that 4,107 Soviet Russian planes were destroyed and 2,233 tanks wrecked or captured in Nazi drives which it said had swept through Lithuania well into neighboring Latvia, trapped two Soviet armies and reached the region of Minsk.

"New and great success is in preparation," the high command said in losing its delayed review of the Nazi drive to the east on the eighth day of the campaign.

A series of 12 special communications, released over a period of five hours, told the official story.

Course Outlined.

One by one, they painted the picture of a vast campaign over a 500-mile front that ruptured Russian fortifications south of the Pinsk marshes, battered back defenders across Sovietized Poland and pushed along the railroad toward Leningrad 350 miles north-eastward from Warsaw.

The German short-wave radio transmitted the communiques in succession and, in every interlude, the station played the song, "We March Against England."

Beginning with a terse account of the onslaught at 3 a. m. June 22 "as a defense against the danger threatening from the east," the communiques swell to a crescendo with these details of the Russian toll:

40,000 prisoners captured.
4,107 planes destroyed.
2,233 tanks destroyed or captured.

1,297 armored cars destroyed.
600 heavy guns captured.

"Vast quantities" of motor cars, anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, machineguns and rifles seized.

Four destroyers, three submarines and a torpedo boat sunk.

The 8,800-ton cruiser Maxim Gorky "seriously damaged."

"In comparison," the final communique said, "our losses were held within moderate lines. In the same period, our air force lost 150 planes. German fliers, as well as German materials, demonstrated a towering superiority."

The general impression created here by the vast shower of information from the communiques was that, in the German view,

Atlantan Slain With Fragment Of Tombstone

L. D. Thomas Is Found Battered in Cumming Cemetery.

Battered to death with a fragment from a marble tombstone, the body of Lawrence D. Thomas, 30-year-old shop clerk for an Atlanta contractor's supply firm, was found about 9 o'clock yesterday morning in the cemetery at Cumming, Ga.

According to investigating State Highway patrolmen, the trousers had been removed and the body dragged in the soft earth for about 50 feet. Police said that Thomas apparently was the victim of a holdup.

A resident of 888 Oak street, S. W., Thomas, his wife and their five-year-old daughter, Doris, were in Cumming for a weekend visit with their parents. They left Atlanta late Saturday afternoon.

Body Found.

The body was discovered by the eight-year-old daughter of Arnie Martin, of Cumming, and identified by Jack Fowler, a deputy in the sheriff's office. Both Thomas and his wife were natives of Forsyth county, and came to Atlanta two years ago.

Thomas was last seen late Saturday night in Cumming with a friend, Private Joe Phillips, of Fort Benning, who was on weekend leave.

A coroner's jury during the afternoon described the death as coming "at the hands of persons unknown." Investigation revealed that Thomas' nose had been broken and a quantity of dirt was found in his mouth.

Fingerprints on Stone.

State patrolmen said that fingerprints had been found on the piece of marble, and intimated that there would be an early arrest. However, investigation was hampered by the presence in Cumming of an estimated 20,000 persons, there to attend the Forsyth County Singing Convention at the court-house.

Thomas was the son of Pickett Thomas, a resident of the Coal Mountain section. His wife is the daughter of Lee Holbrooks.

Senate, House White House Clearly Indicates Deadlocked Draftes To Serve Only Year On Food Stamp

Final Action on Farm and Relief Bills Are Threatened.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—A senate-house deadlock over a $50,000,000 fund for the food stamp plan threatened today to block final congressional approval of farm and relief appropriation bills before the fiscal year ends at midnight tomorrow.

Acting Senate Majority Leader Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, said that if a compromise could not be worked out in time congress might adopt resolutions permitting the Agriculture Department and the relief administration to continue expenditures temporarily at the rate fixed in this year's supply bills. The farm bill carries an appropriation of $1,340,000,000 and the relief bill $936,390,000.

Senator Russell, Democrat, Georgia, said that senate members intended to stand by their demand for an increase of at least $5,000,000 in funds the house previously had voted for the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities, including operation of the stamp plan.

A dispute also arose over whether the food stamp funds should be included in the farm bill or the relief bill. Farm state legislators have contended that the stamp plan operates largely in the cities, that it is a relief measure, and should go in the relief bill.

In approving the farm measure, the senate added $35,000,000 to the $100,000,000 already voted by the house for disposal of surplus commodities. To be doubly sure of obtaining the money it also wrote into the relief bill a $50,000,000 increase for the same purpose.

Register Tomorrow!

Young men who have reached the age of 21 since the last Selective Service registration MUST register with selective service boards tomorrow. They should register at the board of the area in which they live or at other places established by that board to receive registrations. Selective Service officials warn that failure to comply with the law by registration on that date makes a person liable for criminal prosecution. This registration is ONLY for persons reaching the age of 21 after the first registration day.

White House Clearly Indicates Draftes To Serve Only Year Presidential Executive Order Sets at 900,000 Number of Men Who May Be Inducted in Year Starting July 1.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—The temporary White House gave a clear indication today that selectees would be kept in military training only a year, then be permitted to re-enter private life.

A presidential executive order, signed yesterday and released today, set at 900,000 the number of men who may be inducted into the land forces of the United States in the year starting Tuesday, July 1. This is the maximum permitted under the selective service law.

William D. Hassett, the President's secretary, informed reporters that the War Department expected to ask the selective system for new inductees "as the training period of men inducted during the current fiscal year expires."

Asked whether this was "absolute evidence that men now in service would go back home after a year's service," Hassett first replied with an unqualified "Yes," then added that he was not a military lawyer.

In the fiscal year now coming to a close, the President had authorized the induction of 800,000 draftees, but only 650,000 will have been inducted at the end of the year at midnight tomorrow, Hassett said yesterday.

(Other information on President Roosevelt and the draft will be found on page 3.)

Thundershowers Forecast Today

Showers pelted scattered parts of Georgia yesterday and precipitation fell within city limits for the eighth consecutive day.

The weatherman predicts overcast skies with thundershowers falling over a general area of the state today with the temperatures expected to reach a high of 86 and a low of 74 degrees. Extremes yesterday registered a high of 87 and a low of 72 degrees.

Rain was light yesterday and the United States Weather Bureau office at the Municipal airport reported only a trace.

Premier Says Japanese Want U.S. Friendship

Insists Tokyo Is No Partner to Nazi Conquest Plan.

By ARTHUR MENKEN.

TOKYO, June 29.—Japan is extremely anxious to maintain friendly relations with the United States and the imperial government "sees no reason why the two countries cannot remain friendly," Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye told me today in an exclusive interview.

The three-power pact among Japan, Germany and Italy, the premier said, was designed to keep both Japan and the United States from being involved in the European war.

The premier declined to discuss the Russo-German war in detail, because of the present fluctuating situation, but made it clear that he hopes that conflict will not aggravate Japanese-American relations. He asked that Americans make a vigorous effort to understand

Captives Followed Two Years, Led Into Trap, Hoover Says

Warrants Charge Transmission of Information on British Cargoes, New Defense Developments.

NEW YORK, June 29.—In the biggest spy suspect roundup in the history of the United States, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today that 29 persons—three of them women and 22 of them of German birth—had been arrested on charges of conspiracy to engage in espionage activities in the United States.

Culminating a two-year investigation and a program of "most extensive counter-espionage," Hoover said, 18 of the group were arrested in their homes and in taverns in the New York metropolitan area during the past 24 hours by FBI men who moved swiftly and with the greatest secrecy.

Four were taken in New Jersey, one in Michigan, one in Wisconsin and five previously had been placed in custody by federal authorities on other charges.

Trained Suspects.

Asserting that the FBI had trailed the suspects for two years and had "led them into a fly-trap," Hoover said that warrants issued here charged them with transmitting information to foreign nations concerning cargoes on ships bound for Great Britain, new national defense developments in United States Naval, Army and aircraft products, with special emphasis on the aircraft industry, and even the transportation by courier of samples of newly developed armaments.

In the room of one of the suspects, Hoover asserted, a short-wave radio capable of communication with Europe was found. Other communication devices he charged that the spy ring had used included trans-Atlantic airplanes and secret inks.

(Members of the ring have been employed in the German consulate in New York, the German Library of Information, Germania Book and Specialty Company, the Sperry Gyroscope Company which manufactures the secret Sperry and Norden bombsights for the United States and England; the United States Steamship Lines, Westinghouse Electric, Bendix Associates, Ford Motor Company

Paderewski Dies in N. Y. Of Pneumonia

Spent Last Year Working for U. S., Polish Defense.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, 80, former premier of Poland and world-famous pianist, died tonight at the Hotel Buckingham. He had been ill one week.

Dr. Asa L. Lincoln said the great musician's death was caused by pneumonia which he at first seemed destined to overcome but from which he became gravely ill last Friday.

With him when he died was a sister, Madame Antonina Wilkonska; his doctor and his principal aide-de-camp, Sylvian Starackcz. Paderewski had made his home at the hotel for more than a year, during which period he spent his time working in the interest of

Pope Says War Is Act of God, Predicts Peace in 'Due Time'

Conflict Is Called Punishment for Sins of Mankind.

VATICAN CITY, June 29.—(AP) Pope Pius XII, for the first time, attributed the war today to the hand of Divine Providence as punishment for the sins of mankind. He did not specifically mention the Russian-German conflict.

In a radio broadcast to the world, the Pope advised Catholics to "trust in God," who would restore "justice, calm and peace" in His own due time after "having let the hurricane loose for a moment on humanity."

The Pope said that to trust in God means "believing that God can permit at times here below" the "predominance of atheism and impiety, lamentable obscuring of the sense of justice, violation of law, tormenting of innocent, peaceful, undefended and helpless men."

viduals and peoples." These trials, he said, were "in the design of justice directed towards punishment of sin, towards purifying persons and peoples through expiations of this present life."

The Pontiff, who had announced his speech as a message to the world, singled out Rome and the "whole Italian people" for special blessing before imparting his benediction on all.

Men, the Pontiff said, "think of human events in relation to their approximate causes and immediate effect," while "God sees them in their remote causes and judges their remote effects."

The Pontiff began his speech by saying that he, too, felt his heart "grow faint at the tempest of evil, of suffering and of anguish that now rages over the world."

Trusting in God, the Pope said, means "believing that God at times thus lets trials befall indi-

U. S. Rushing Alaskan Air, Sea Defense To Meet Nazi Threat

Russian Bases Within Few Miles of Country Present New Menace With Hitler Hordes Marching Eastward.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—Air, submarine, antiaircraft and heavy artillery installations are being rushed in Alaska to meet a potential Nazi threat to the United States from Siberia, 30 miles from Alaska's shore, informed military experts revealed tonight.

It was disclosed, also, that a potential menace lies in Russian air and submarine bases recently constructed in the Bering islands, within easy flight distance of vital Alaskan areas, should the Germans conquer the Soviets. These bases were built under the direction of German technicians and to Nazi specifications, a fact which experts are discussing in connection with their possible occupation by Hitler forces.

Nazi plans to conquer the U. S. S. R. in three months have spurred work on Alaska's defense program which was initiated less than two years ago. Emphasis now is on air and submarine bases, since planes and undersea craft will form the main defensive instruments in America's Alaskan strategy, it was said.

German control of Russia's Far Eastern establishment would put Germany on the Bering Strait, 30 to 50 miles from Alaska's Seward peninsula. There are Russian islands, moreover, which are even closer to American territory than that. Russia has air fields scattered all through the near-by Arctic tundras which could be readily converted into jumping-off places for an attack against Alaska.

Delegate Anthony Dimond, Alaska's representative in congress, told the United Press that defense preparation in Alaska must be stepped up rapidly to meet the situation brought about by the Nazi onslaught on Russia. "One of the best things that could be done would be construction of a highway between Alaska and the northwest states," he said, "that would give us unshakable control."

NO OTHER HOUSE PAINT CAN EQUAL DU PONT PAINTS FOR LONG LIFE!

The House Paint That Endures. It's brilliantly white... tough durable. Du Pont House Paint keeps houses beautiful because it stays cleaner! Here's why—Du Pont Prepared Paint forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white, powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it, and exposing a fresh white surface. This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or self-cleaning conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the film are not abnormally affected.

Good Character Necessary for Correspondent

Professional Competence Also Termed Principal Requisite.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Good character and professional competence are principal requisites for the foreign correspondent—the man who gambles his life to give the world news—Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, said today.

"They are chosen," he said, "not only because they asked for such service, but because their education and experience qualifies them. But good character and professional competence are more important than any other qualification."

Speaking on "Behind the Mike," radio program which dramatized excerpts of the book "A. P., The Story of News," by Oliver Gramling, Cooper told of the problems of transmitting news from foreign sources and said that Wirephoto, AP's news picture transmission system, was regarded as the outstanding journalistic development of recent years.

Every Means. "Whatever comes," he said, "AP member newspapers intend to continue to utilize every means at their disposal to see that the Associated Press does its job—to report in word and picture, discerningly and without bias, the news of the entire world."

Among other things, the program dramatized the birth of the wire service in May, 1848. Horace Greeley, David Hale and eight other leaders in New York journalism were discussing the problems of receiving important news from outside the city. They agreed to pool their resources and form a co-operative wire service which would serve them all and Hale suggested calling it the Associated Press.

Progress Outlined. The scenes outlined various steps in the AP's progress—how news was flashed by crude signals, how presidential nominations were broadcast by the waving of a flag, how correspondents died to bring news to the world and how they underwent many ordeals to maintain the aims of the service.

In 1919, Pancho Villa postponed for a week an attack on the town of Ojinaga, Mexico, when Norman Walker, an AP man, told him that he wouldn't get much publicity in the United States because the World Series was on.

Also dramatized was an incident of the Spanish civil war, when Edward J. Neil Jr., Associated Press reporter, died because he wanted to give the world an account of a battle on the Teruel front. A shell burst fatally wounded him.

Gramling's book is to be produced on Broadway next season.

Nazis Say 15 Ships Sunk by Subs, Planes. BERLIN, June 29.—(AP)—Destruction of 15 ships totaling 86,500 tons by German U-boats and bomber planes was reported officially tonight by the German high command.

Submarines raiding convoys and single ships in the Atlantic sank one tanker and seven freighters aggregating 46,700 tons, the command's regular communique said, and torpedoed one tanker and two freighters of 25,000 tons.

"Destruction of these (latter) ships can be regarded as certain," the communique added, "so that U-boats with this blow accounted for 71,700 tons of enemy merchant shipping."

Foreign Powers. Most of such agents here, he said, are paid by foreign powers in United States currency by means of transactions with United States banks through the banks of other neutral nations; in some cases through Latin-American banking firms, all of which he said acted innocently and legally in their handling of the business.

Couriers employed by foreign nations as liaison men between European capitals and the active field men in the United States frequently have been found returning to this country with considerable United States currency in their possession, Hoover said.

Another means of transmitting information and even samples of newly developed United States products, Hoover declared, was the international airmail, especially the airmail lines operating out of Italy.

Hoover listed the following under detention beside Duquesne: Paul Bante, New York city.

Spy Suspects Seized by FBI in Big Roundup

plants abroad, Chrysler Motor Company plants abroad, and Pan American Airways, the United Press said.)

One of the men arrested formerly worked on a trans-Atlantic Clipper plane, several worked on ships and others worked at one time or another in various defense industry plants, Hoover said.

Writer, Lecturer. The FBI chief identified one of the men listed as Frederick Joubert Duquesne as "a writer, lecturer and professional spy."

Obviously elated over the work of the FBI, Hoover said that only 19 persons had been convicted of espionage or conspiracy to commit espionage since the passage of the federal espionage act of 1917, under which the arrests were made.

Under the act, he said, the suspects, if convicted, would be subject to a maximum penalty of 20 years' imprisonment. The 18 arrested in New York, he added, will be arraigned before a United States commissioner in Brooklyn tomorrow by United States District Attorney Harold M. Kennedy, while those arrested in other states will be brought to New York by due process in the near future.

Still another of the suspects under arrest, Hoover said, was Carl Reuper, a native of Germany and a naturalized United States citizen whom Hoover identified as the originator of the German-American Alliance in Chicago.

Another of the men arrested, listed as Axel Wheeler-Hill, was identified by Hoover as a brother of James Wheeler-Hill, a former national secretary of the German-American Bund convicted on a charge of perjury in connection with the trial of Bund leader Fritz Kuhn. He was given an indeterminate sentence of not more than three years in February, 1940.

Two U. S. Natives. In addition to the 22 German-born defendants, the group included two natives of the United States and one each from France, Russia, South Africa, Austria and Moravia. All but two of the foreign born already had become United States citizens by naturalization, he said, and the remaining two had taken steps to obtain their first papers.

Seeking citizenship in the countries to which they were assigned, Hoover said, was one of the first instructions followed by secret foreign agents.

Explaining that all of the persons under arrest would face a formal charge of "obtaining information of a confidential nature pertaining to the national defense from various sources and transmitting this information through various channels to representatives of a foreign power," Hoover said that long and tedious investigation by FBI men had uncovered intimate details of the work of foreign agents in the United States.

Foreign Powers. Most of such agents here, he said, are paid by foreign powers in United States currency by means of transactions with United States banks through the banks of other neutral nations; in some cases through Latin-American banking firms, all of which he said acted innocently and legally in their handling of the business.

Couriers employed by foreign nations as liaison men between European capitals and the active field men in the United States frequently have been found returning to this country with considerable United States currency in their possession, Hoover said.

In addition to the above, complaints have been filed against the following persons who are already in federal custody under charges specified opposite each name:

Paul Fehse, now serving a year and a day at the United States penitentiary, Atlanta, Ga., for violation of the federal registration act. He pleaded guilty to this charge on April 1, 1941, at New York city.

Rene Mezenen, Flushing, N. Y., a trans-Atlantic commercial flight steward, was apprehended by FBI agents on June 5, 1941, for violation of the export-control act in the smuggling of platinum to Portugal. He pleaded guilty before the United States commissioner at Brooklyn and is confined at the Federal House of Detention in New York city in default of $10,000 bond.

Erwin Wilhelm Siegler, former chief butcher on the S. S. America, was apprehended by FBI agents on June 20, on a complaint charging him with conspiracy to violate the registration act.

Franz Stigler, New York, former chief baker on the S. S. America, was arrested by FBI agents on June 20, 1941, on a complaint charging him with conspiracy to violate the registration act.

Bertram Wolfgang Zenzinger, Topanga Canyon road, Topanga Canyon, Cal. Zenzinger is a British subject from the Union of South Africa. He was taken into custody by FBI agents at Los Angeles on April 16, 1941, entered a plea of guilty to violation of the registration act and was sentenced in federal court at Los Angeles to serve 18 months for this offense.

The Soviet counterintelligence said on this score: "Fierce fighting is in progress in the Minsk and Baranowicz directions against enemy infantry units which are striving to join the vanguard tank columns."

A similar suggestion of German tanks ranging far ahead of the infantry came from Vichy, France. Military circles there said the two Russian armies which the Germans claimed to have surrounded in the Bialystok area of Poland might merely have been encircled by the advance panzers.

With German infantry not on the scene, these armies can fight as long as their munitions hold out and might very well crush out of the thin ring of Nazi tanks, the French sources speculated.

Unfair, Says Fare; Wind Catches Air

It was almost gone with Wind. At least that's what Wind, who drives a taxicab and whose given name is Eugene, told police yesterday. Wind, who lives at 57 1-2 Decatur street, related he took a fare out to a house on Chestnut street early in the morning.

The meter registered 35 cents. The fare paid, and then said, "Don't go—I'll be right back."

A moment later, Wind says, the fare returned—armed with a pistol and demanding a nickel refund, the amount he claimed Wind overcharged him. Wind paid. Police are seeking the fare.

undermined, while the Soviet troops, despite their late deployment, continue defending Soviet land and dealing to the enemy severe blows, exhausting him."

Different Point of View. The Russians made no attempt to minimize the gigantic proportions of the fighting, but said that the Red army and not the Nazi was doing well and that captured Germans told of being driven into battle under threat of shots in the back.

The German and Russian announcements agreed on one point: That the worst of the fighting is occurring on a 500-mile front on the plains of prostrate Poland, the victim that the Nazis and Communists partitioned between them in September, 1939, when they were officially friends.

The Finnish and Rumanian sectors of the 2,000-mile White sea-to-Black sea line were virtually ignored in the announcements of both major opponents. The Russians said they staved off repeated scouting thrusts along the Finnish border and that vigorous but minor fighting was in progress on the Rumanian side of the Danube near its mouth.

Admit Red Stand. The Germans acknowledged existence of a Russian center of resistance in the Lwow vicinity of Poland, but contended that Nazi troops even now were driving against it.

They said 200 Russian tanks were captured in a great battle in the Kaunas (Lithuania) area, ending June 26, and that 250 more were captured near Dubno, south-east of Luck, Poland.

The Russians asserted 4,000 tanks on both sides still were battling in the Luck area, intimating that this was the greatest single tank combat in history. The Germans merely said tank thrusts were continuing east of Luck.

German infantrymen were said to be following up a bold push by tank units in the direction of Minsk, capital of White Russia, and DNB, German news agency, said strong panzer units had reached the road to Moscow beyond Minsk.

Pierce Fighting. The Soviet communique said on this score: "Fierce fighting is in progress in the Minsk and Baranowicz directions against enemy infantry units which are striving to join the vanguard tank columns."

A similar suggestion of German tanks ranging far ahead of the infantry came from Vichy, France. Military circles there said the two Russian armies which the Germans claimed to have surrounded in the Bialystok area of Poland might merely have been encircled by the advance panzers.

With German infantry not on the scene, these armies can fight as long as their munitions hold out and might very well crush out of the thin ring of Nazi tanks, the French sources speculated.

Italians Told Not To Expect Speedy Victory

Gayda Says Distance Augurs Against Quick Triumph in Russia.

ROME, June 29.—(AP)—Italians were warned by the authoritative Fascist Editor Virginio Gayda today against expecting a lightning victory over Russia.

"It would be a serious mistake to think that all is easy and ought to speed in quick step to the desired solution," Gayda wrote. "Russia is resisting the offensive not only with a gigantic mass of arms and the more or less capable arts of her leaders, but also with distance."

"That was the case in 1812 (when Napoleon failed to conquer Russia). It was the case—if in a less measure—from 1914 to 1917. It is still, in part, her chance today."

The Fascist spokesman added, however, that modern methods of warfare had so changed the picture as to make it impossible for Russia to rely upon traditional defenses.

Little activity on the African fronts was reported, but Italy saw on the home front new signs of preparation for long conflict. The nation looked to wood burners to keep it warm through the second winter of the war, as the Timber Guild ordered immediate measures to assure adequate supplies of cordwood and charcoal to supplant coal.

Speakers at a guild meeting pointed out the necessity of increasing the charcoal output to take the place of imported coal, which now is a necessity for war industries. Timber from Croatia also is expected to help meet the emergency situation.

The Liquid Fuel. The Liquid Fuel Guild meets July 2 to examine the possibilities of extracting mineral oils from asphalt products.

Fifteen Italian movie personages, including the first-rank stars Vittorio de Sita and Asia Noris, drew fines for ignoring rationing restrictions in the Cinecitta (film city) restaurant.

100,000 at Dedication Of Chicago's Airport. CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—The mile-square, $6,000,000 Municipal airport, one of the largest in the nation, was dedicated today before a crowd estimated by police at 100,000.

The field, recently doubled in size, has parallel paved runways, permitting the landing of two planes simultaneously. It is used by eight transport lines.

Georgians Are Hurt In Alabama Crash

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 29.—(AP)—Four persons were injured today in a collision of automobiles 26 miles from here on the Atlanta highway.

William Clarence Purifoy, of Concord, N. C., and Miss Clara Sherill, of Kannapolis, N. C., were in serious condition at Fitts Hill hospital.

The state highway patrol said the Misses Marion and Gloria Sydenham, daughters of Major H. G. Sydenham, of Fort Benning, Ga., suffered shock and minor lacerations.

Beaverbrook Named British Supply Head

Churchill Shuffles Cabinet To Speed War Effort.

LONDON, June 30, (Monday) (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, shuffling his cabinet for the second time in two months to take swift advantage of Adolf Hitler's Russian campaign, today appointed Lord Beaverbrook minister of supply, with responsibility for one of the most important posts in the British war machine.

Simultaneously, Churchill abolished the post of minister of state, which Lord Beaverbrook was given in the cabinet changes of May 2 and in which "the Beaver" had been called vice prime minister.

Beaverbrook replaced Sir Andrew Rae Duncan as minister of supply. Sir Andrew went back to his former post as president of the board of trade, replacing Captain Oliver Lyttleton, who was selected for "special duties abroad." Sir Andrew will continue as chairman of the import authority.

The eight-member war cabinet previously had not included the minister of supply, but the Canadian-born peer, who quadrupled Britain's plane output as minister of air production, retains his important post in the war cabinet under the new set-up.

He was given wide responsibility for making war goods in all of Britain's factories.

The prime minister's action was interpreted almost unanimously by informed circles as meaning Churchill was placing a new and greater emphasis upon increasing the speed of production of war materials to take the fullest advantage of Germany's engagement against Russia.

Well-posted circles said Lord Beaverbrook had not lost stature in the shake-up; that he had been assigned to the new post because Churchill felt he would be more useful there.

Beaverbrook's duties as referee on priority questions were taken over by Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin. Other minor tasks were given to other officials because, it was believed, of the demands the new post will make upon Beaverbrook's time.

The authoritative Press Association observed that the cabinet changes "are but underlinings of repeated warnings by government spokesmen that the Russian-German conflict, far from providing cause for relaxation, is an opportunity for Britain to make up the leeway in production."

Reds Offer Turkey Oil for Good Will

(AP)—Informed Turkish sources said today Russia had proposed to supply Turkey with gasoline and other military and industrial essentials in an effort to keep the Ankara government from falling completely into the German orbit.

Russia has available gasoline formerly going to Germany and could reopen depots in Turkey closed a year ago.

Soviet Ambassador Sergei Alexandrovich Vinogradov, hurrying back from Moscow, crossed the border last night and was expected to make an energetic attempt at Ankara to improve Turkish relations which soured abruptly on Adolf Hitler's charge that Russia demanded Bosphorus bases.

The Turkish press mildly praised the Soviet for repeated but belated denials that such demands were made.

Early Induction Seen for New Registrants

Few Will Have Deferral Reasons of Older Men.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—A relatively high percentage of the 750,000 young men to be registered for military service Tuesday may be inducted into the Army within the next few months.

This was forecast by military manpower experts today as officials of the National Selective Service System prepared to register virtually all men in the country, aliens as well as citizens, who have attained the minimum selective service age of 21 since last October 16. At that time 16,500,000 were registered. Those exempted from signing up on Tuesday are foreign diplomats and members of their staffs and men already in the armed services.

A factor which authorities said would operate in favor of swift induction for thousands of the men to be enrolled Tuesday is that comparatively few of them will have physical, economic or occupational reasons for deferment, whereas a high percentage of the older men—21 to 35 inclusive—registered last October have such reasons.

Other Circumstances. In addition, there are other contributing circumstances, principally among them being the proposal now before congress for automatic deferment in peace time of all men more than 28 years old.

Research Unit Is Established By President

'American Defense Service Medal' Will Be Awarded.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—In three executive orders, released today, President Roosevelt established:

An office of scientific research and development in the Office of Emergency Management and transferred into it the National Defense Research Committee.

An "American defense service medal," to be awarded to members of the armed service who have served during the period of limited and unlimited national emergencies proclaimed by President Roosevelt. The order did not say what a man must do to merit the medal.

A "good conduct medal," to be awarded enlisted men of the Army who hereafter honorably complete three years' service and are recommended by commanding officers for "exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity."

Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution, of Washington, who has been chairman of the National Defense Research Committee, was named director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development. Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard University president, becomes chairman of the committee, whose other members are: Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Roger Adams, head of the chemistry department of the University of Illinois; and Dr. Richard C. Tolman, dean of the graduate school of the California Institute of Technology.

Medical Research. Hassett announced that Mr. Roosevelt planned later to appoint a committee on medical research for defense.

Another new step in the maze of defense activities was the signing of a bill authorizing a $150,000,000 appropriation to provide necessary public services at defense centers. The money will be used for such things as schools, waterworks, sewage and refuse disposal plants, sanitary facilities, hospital, recreational facilities, streets and access roads.

The President, passing up morning services at St. James Episcopal church, worked on a brief address he will deliver tomorrow at the dedication of the Franklin D. Roosevelt library.

Direct Line. Hassett said it was safe also to assume that the Chief Executive was in communication with Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, on the latest trends of the war in Europe. A direct telephone line to the White House enables him to maintain almost as close contacts as he does in Washington.

The National Resources Planning Board, of which the President's uncle, Frederic A. Delano, is chairman, paid an afternoon call at the Roosevelt home. The members have been guests at Delano's home at Newburgh, and Hassett attached no significance to the visit.

Vichy Believed Asking Turkey To Aid in Syria

Benoist-Mechin Visit Hints at Request for Defense Help.

VICHY, June 29.—(AP)—Indications were growing in Vichy today that Turkey might be asked for aid in some form in the French defense of Syria against British attack.

Such a request was considered likely to be the main mission of Jacques Benoist-Mechin, vice-president of the Vichy cabinet, who arrived in Ankara June 26 with a special message from Chief of State Marshal Petain for the Turkish president, Ismet Inonu.

Turkish reports had said Benoist-Mechin would ask Turkish permission for French troops retreating from Syria to cross Turkey.

The well-informed Telemondial Agency linked Benoist-Mechin's trip to a recent article by Jean Lucilaire in the Paris newspaper Les Nouveaux Temps, which said: "If it happens that the French Army of the Levant, deprived of reinforcements and supplies, be obliged to retreat or lay down arms, a danger of the most extreme gravity would weigh upon Turkey. The most elementary prudence thus counsels the Turkish government to facilitate by all opportune means the French defense of Syria."

It has been reported in Vichy, ever since Benoist-Mechin left, that he was charged either with preventing Turkey entry into the conflict (to aid Britain), or negotiating for passage of French supplies of all kinds to aid embattled Syrian garrisons.

The Lucilaire article pointed out that by the treaty of June 23, 1939, in which France ceded Alexandretta to Turkey, France declared she never would renounce her mandate over Syria and Lebanon to a third power.

Of the accord Lucilaire wrote: "One can affirm that France not only is defending Syria and Lebanon against British aggression to safeguard our imperial interests, but that her troops today are fighting to maintain the promise made to the Turkish government two years ago."

Swedes Let Nazis Pass As Limited Concession

STOCKHOLM, June 29.—(AP)—Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson said today that Sweden's permission for a German division to cross from Norway to Finland through her territory was a definitely restricted concession.

He said that the permission, which was an obliging and non-recurring act, in no way affected Sweden's determination to maintain independence.

Largest Airport Is 'Jammed' When Scottie Scampers Off

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—LaGuardia airport was operating smoothly this morning until Mrs. Julian Busby tried to get her 5-year-old terrier, Scottie, aboard a plane which was to take them home to Knappton, N. C.

Scottie suddenly broke away and scooted across the field, starting a chase that lasted an hour, caused Mrs. Busby to miss her plane, and brought into play a two-way radio, a police patrol car, a Pan American Airways launch, a rowboat, a station wagon, and a plane-hauling tractor.

Scottie was captured by boys in a rowboat when she plunged into Flushing bay while all available manpower rushed about in the aforementioned equipment directed by the control tower's radio.

Mrs. Busby postponed the trip.

Premier Says Japanese Want U.S. Friendship

Japan's position, which he conceives to be that of a factor for peace and stability in East Asia, and insisted that Japan is not a partner to any German plan for world conquest.

The Prince, tall, athletic and radiating an atmosphere of calm and confidence, received me Sunday morning in his private residence, interrupting a succession of official conferences for our talk and to pose for a newsreel which I took.

Groups of officials were arriving in quick succession as I was driven into the garden of his home and it was evident that the Russo-German war may confront the premier and his ministers with decisions of the gravest importance.

Thanked Prince. After I had thanked Prince Kono for receiving me, I asked for his opinion of Japanese-American relations in view of the spread of the European war. He replied: "Japan is very anxious to maintain friendly relations with the United States and we see no reason why our two countries cannot remain friendly."

The world situation, he added, is extremely delicate and for that reason detailed comment on most aspects of the Russo-German conflict is inadvisable. I asked whether the latest developments in the international situation might result in an alteration of Japanese-American relations and the Premier replied: "Let me emphasize, again, that we are very anxious to maintain friendship for the United States. We consider that the German-Japanese alliance is designed to keep the United States from involvement in the European war."

Explains Program. The Prince then went on to explain that Japan's program for peace and orderly political and economic development in East Asia is well known and that the three-power pact was intended to assist in that plan. "The tripartite pact," he said, "has one chief purpose—of a defensive nature. I do hope that the people of the United States will understand its spirit as we envisage it. Let me repeat, again and again, that I can see no reason why the Japanese and American peoples cannot remain friendly."

Up to this point the Premier, who speaks English well, had used that language, but he switched to Japanese as he went into a discussion of the "purely defensive" background of the three-power treaty.

Resumes English. Then, resuming the use of English, he added that he wished to most emphatically and clearly understood when he asserted that Japan's recent political relations with Germany all have been motivated by a desire to keep the war away from the Far East. I asked whether the Premier believed that the resources of the United States in raw materials and specialized industry could be combined with Japan's special ability in shipping and certain phases of manufacturing and distribution, to make a strong combination for peace throughout the world, and he replied with obvious satisfaction: "Yes, that is true. Indeed I do."

The Prince, despite the pressure of his duties, was unhurried and extremely courteous throughout the interview and the subsequent taking of films. He posed repeatedly for the newsreel and still photographs despite his known aversion to being photographed.

Finns Told To Beware Of Parachute Spies

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—The Finnish radio quoted the Helsinki high command in a broadcast heard in London today as ordering the public of that nation, at war against Soviet Russia, "to be on the lookout for suspicious and foreign-looking persons known to have been dropped behind the Finnish lines from enemy aircraft."

(A Helsinki broadcast heard in New York quoted Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, commander in chief, as calling upon Finland's soldiers in an order of the day "to follow me in a holy war on the enemy of our nation . . . by the side of the mighty armed forces of Germany.")

Briton Stresses Need Of Increased Shipping

SHEERNESS, England, June 29.—(AP)—Increased production of merchant tonnage in Britain is imperative, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander said in a speech today.

Maximum effort also should be made to acquire such tonnage as can be gained by the expanding building program of the United States and from other shipbuilding countries.

"We require the greatest possible effort in increasing the volume and speeding up delivery of ships, guns, tanks and planes," he declared.

Constanta in Flames; Oil Stores Hard Hit

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—The British radio reported today that 60 per cent of all oil stores in the Rumanian Black sea port of Constanta were destroyed and the city and port were in flames. The report, heard by NBC, said the Rumanian oil centers of Ploesti have been wrecked as fuel sources and are aflame.

Lonnie Kelley, 43, Is Injured in Fall

Lonnie Kelley, 43-year-old truck driver of 998 Capitol avenue, was injured seriously early yesterday morning when he fell two stories from a window in the Postal hotel at 87 1-2 Fairlie street.

According to Yancey Heaton, of 824 Washington street, Kelley had just returned from a trip to North Carolina and should have had about $500 in his possession. Police said that only $10 was found in the man's pockets.

Kelley was discovered unconscious by Charlie Reid, Negro hotel porter, who investigated after a guest reported to him that she had heard "something fall past her window." Kelley was admitted to Grady hospital.

Price Control

News reports from Washington tell of a growing belief in administration circles that a system of mandatory price controls for all United States industry may become necessary.

A move has already been made to fix automobile tire prices at their June 16 level and a request, by Leon Henderson, price administrator, that recent advances in automobile prices be rescinded met with refusal.

Of course the objective of any such controls to forestall currency deflation. Mounting prices and higher costs of living are the first steps toward deflation which, as demonstrated in Europe after the last war, can get out of hand and produce disastrous results.

However, if price controls are to be enforced by the government, it would be totally unfair to exempt any form of product, or the material which goes into its making.

This applies, with equal force, to wages for labor.

It is economically impossible to tell the manufacturer of any article that he cannot charge more than a fixed maximum price for his product, while his cost of manufacture, which includes raw material, labor and taxes, constantly advancing with nothing to hold it down.

There have been many, far too many, strikes in defense industry and in other industrial plants, since the coming of the war emergency. In nearly every case these strikes have been settled by granting the striking workers the wage increases they ask.

With wages thus going steadily up, with no apparent way of checking them, it is inevitable that the price of the things the workers make, advance likewise.

Which completes the vicious circle of deflation, for then those same workers must pay more for the necessities of life. The dollars in their wage envelopes thus shrink in purchasing power and once again there arises demand for further advances in the scales of pay.

Thus is the road to deflation of currency values, with all the tragedy it can bring.

If prices, generally, are to be made static by mandatory order, wages and taxes and all other costs of manufacture should be likewise stabilized.

Which, respect to taxes at least, is manifestly absurd.

While a home defense program is in the making, how about everybody putting up a picket fence for the gliding invader to impale his pants on?

A Red-Faced Sergeant

No war rookie in Uncle Sam's new Army need feel ashamed because of a tendency of his feet to get tangled up when attempting the intricacies of close-order drill.

For the matter of military behaviorism of the pedal extremities has been proven to have no connection whatever with the mental or business ability of the man to whom those feet are attached.

The story is told, by the private himself, of the sergeant who lost patience with an apparently particularly stupid recruit. Finally the sergeant exploded and, among other things, told that particular rookie it was lucky for him he was getting $21 a month in the Army, because he was undoubtedly "too stupid" to make a living anywhere else.

The private, who told the story on himself, was William McChesney Martin Jr., who, before he was called in the draft, drew an annual salary of $48,000 as president of the New York Stock Exchange.

So, cheer up, you seemingly clumsy rookies. You may not, after all, be hopelessly doomed to poverty and failure, just because the drill sergeant doesn't approve your foot work.

And, if he has heard the story, it is to be expected there is one drill sergeant today who is going around with an abnormally red face.

A Man To Be Trusted

It is doubtful if there is a man in public life who enjoys the confidence of old and New Dealers, of Republicans and Democrats alike, unless that man is Jesse Jones.

As secretary of commerce in the Roosevelt cabinet, as Federal Loan administrator, as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and a half-dozen other governmental organizations, he stands out tall and straight, towering high in the forest of dead administrative timber. He is a man who does things, who can be relied upon to do things, who can be trusted; and for this very reason, job after job has been piled on his desk, and he always seems capable of doing more.

When he asked congress, a few weeks ago, to give the RFC "the power to do whatever it lacked the power to do heretofore," both houses passed a bill.

To set up any corporation which President Roosevelt deems necessary for the defense program; to lend money to any foreign government; to increase the RFC's lending capacity by $1,500,000,000.

Congress doubtless would have been reluctant to give such unlimited power had the RFC been in the hands of another man. Under the power granted, the corporation may set up any kind of business which the directing head of the government may see fit, in competition with existing private enterprise.

As one spokesman in congress put it, during a discussion of the bill, "it would give the power to do anything so long as it was incidental to the defense program. It would make possible the establishment of a Fascist state in the United States."

But congress had learned to trust the Federal Loan administrator. Even Hamilton Fish, Republican congressman from New York, and anti-everything Roosevelt, said "I believe that this fund is in safe hands when placed at the disposal of Jesse Jones."

On a Pennsylvania campus, an orator cries that the country needs a prophet with a voice. It has the wilderness.

Why should the Fuehrer do anything for civilization? What has it done for him?

Popular Leadership

There can be no doubt that, in both the United States and Britain, the policies pursued by the national leaders have the full approval of the great majority of the people. And even among those who do not give full approval to each detail of policy, there are doubtless many who are in complete sympathy with the general purpose involved.

Thus, while a few in Britain may criticize the Churchill government for the course followed in the Balkans and in Crete, on the broad question of the war, practically every Britisher is in full accord.

Two recent Gallup polls, one in this country and one in Britain, serve to put into statistical form this overwhelming support of average citizens for Roosevelt, here, and Churchill, over there.

Asked if, in general, they approved or disapproved of the way Roosevelt is handling his job as president, 76 per cent of the Americans queried replied in the affirmative. This lifts the popularity of the President and his administration to an all-time high mark.

In Britain, asked a parallel question in regard to Churchill, 86 per cent approved his leadership as Prime Minister. Only nine per cent said flatly they disapproved, while the remaining five per cent were undecided.

Under the Nazi system of fear and suppression it is likely that a higher percentage of Germans would approve Hitler's policies. Probably a Nazi conducted vote would reveal something like 99 44-100ths per cent in his favor. For Germans aren't vote otherwise.

But it is doubtful if any free country, not terrorized by totalitarian bullies, would vote more strongly in approval of their national leaders than have the United States and Britain.

As a sleep-inducer, the daily threat from the Duce may gradually supersede old-fashioned phenobarbital.

Georgia Editors Say:

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

(From The Savannah News.)

A reminder that south Georgia's tobacco marketing season is only a few weeks distant comes from Moultrie, where warehousemen are reported to have predicted that opening of markets to auction off the $12,000,000 bright-leaf tobacco crop may be delayed two weeks due to the effects of the drought in slowing the development of the crop. Recent rains removed the threat of serious drought damage, it is stated, but the crop is somewhat behind schedule and replantings have been widespread, indicating that curings will be extended over a longer period than usual.

Dates for opening of tobacco markets in the belt are to be announced Friday by the United States Marketing Association. Warehousemen predicted Georgia markets would not open until the middle of August. Chief interest, of course, centers upon the probable yield and the total amount of money to be turned into the channels of trade. The average price paid Georgian growers last year was 15.63 cents a pound for the 79,547,000 crop, bringing a total return of $12,423,000. Curing will not reach full swing for another 10 days or two weeks, growers report, but a few barns in south Georgia and eastern Alabama and northern Florida already have been fired.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS AND KENNETH G. CRAWFORD.

FOR SUPREME AIR FORCE WASHINGTON, June 29.—In his private report to the President and War Department since returning from his recent secret military mission abroad, Colonel James Roosevelt, eldest son of the chief executive, made the strongest possible recommendation for building up an American air force second to none in the world.

After a first-hand observation of war conditions both in the Orient and the Mediterranean area, he came back convinced that the United States must revolutionize its past concepts of military tactics if it is to overcome the threat of our national security by German mechanized forces.

Unusual weight must be given to Colonel Roosevelt's report, not only because of what he says and saw on his own account, but because of the channels of information opened to him on his world-circling trip.

As the son of the President and a high-ranking officer in our own armed forces, on an official military mission he naturally was given an opportunity to explore war developments more thoroughly than would have been the privilege of most anyone else. That he took studious advantage of the opportunity offered him is attested to by the earnestness with which he has recited his findings to Washington officials.

CONCENTRATE ON AIR The main burden of his report was that in order to make our British-aid program effective enough to cast the final deciding blow against the Axis powers, as well as to insure our own national security, we must concentrate all our means on gaining air supremacy.

This, of course, is not an entirely new thesis. It has been recognized since the beginning of the war; more particularly since the fall of France.

All of our various military missions to Europe have dwelt on the theme consistently in their reports on observations of actual war conditions. But the necessity for attaining the objective takes on a fresh significance after witnessing, as Colonel Roosevelt did, the fall of the well-fortified island of Crete through the use of air power.

The Germans were able to capture the Greek island solely through the employment of their air forces, routing a sizable force of British and Greek defenders unsupported by air power. It is somewhat beside the point to refer to the advantage held by the Germans in having to launch their attack from airfields on the Nazi-occupied Greek mainland only some 100 miles from Crete, whereas the British were compelled to operate from airports in Egypt, several hundred miles away.

SAW PART OF FIGHT Having witnessed a part of the actual operations, the President's son was greatly impressed with what he saw. He also talked with a great many generals, high-ranking officers and rank and file of the men who went through the Battle of Crete and similar engagements. Not alone is air supremacy a tremendous military advantage to the side holding it, he found, but the effect on the morale of troops unsupported by air power is usually deadly. To be bombed day after day from the air without a show of adequate air defense from your own forces is disheartening enough to break the spirit of the toughest troops, he learned.

Military experts have long concluded that air power constitutes the spearhead of German blitz successes thus far. The President's son has seen enough of it to give fresh impetus to the need for surpassing that Axis strength.

How the Colonel came to witness a part of the Crete conflict is itself a highly interesting and dramatic story. He was flown in to a British field on the island at the tail end of a severe German bombing raid after a hop of several hundred miles across Mediterranean waters. Because of the raid, British officials signaled his ship away, but fuel shortage made it necessary to land anyway. His British pilot dove into the field at 250 miles per hour through a parting rain of German bombs. Later he was flown to Cairo, where he conferred with the men and officers taking part in the Crete evacuation.

CONFIDENCE IN AMERICA One of the most heartening things found by Colonel Roosevelt on his trip—a world-circling flight that took him first to China, then to India and Syria and Africa—was the confidence displayed everywhere in the ability of American industrial genius to prove the deciding factor in the war.

No less in China than in Greece and in Egypt with the British and Anzac colonial forces he found the same hopes of ultimate victory pinned on the military equipment supplied by the United States. The common joyous refrain he heard along the line of his travels was: If America has set her mind to aid us, Hitler might as well say goodnight; he's finished.

Another of his observations is not without particular interest in view of developments in the Pacific. He brought back the conviction gained from his personal survey of the Chinese situation that the Japs will never be able to defeat China. Although fighting with vastly inferior equipment and under laborer war production conditions, the Chinese, he confidently predicted, will be able to resist until the force of Japanese invasion is spent.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Minimum Fees, But Not Minimum. Sometime ago a little news item stated the Dade County Bar Association (Miami, Fla.) had adopted a minimum fee of $100 to be charged by members of the association in divorce cases. The Constitution ran a little editorial on the item, asking whether the U. S. attorney general's office would consider this an example of a trust, a thing to be promptly busted, of course, by members of its own profession. It was pointed out that this seemed to be a moral, if not legal, violation of federal laws which seek to prevent business from "ganging up" on the consumer.

It was further pointed out that in some instances where divorce is morally justified and necessary, the affected parties would be barred from legal severance of the matrimonial ties because of inability to pay for a lawyer.

All of which seemed logical conclusions from the action of the bar association, as reported in the news columns.

Now, however, comes a letter from President W. L. Gray Jr., of the Dade County Bar Association, saying the editorial was unfair and asking that we proceed to rectify that unfairness. Hence, this column.

As Near As We Can Interpret. President Gray encloses a printed booklet, setting forth "Schedules of Fees Adopted by the Dade County Bar Association, June 11, 1941."

In his letter he quotes the Code of Ethics adopted by the supreme court of Florida on January 27, 1941. The final two paragraphs quoted read:

"In determining the customary charges of the bar for similar services, it is proper for a lawyer to consider a schedule of minimum fees adopted by a bar association, but no lawyer should permit himself to be controlled thereby or to follow it as his sole guide in determining the amount of his fee."

"In fixing fees it should never be forgotten that the profession is a branch of the administration of justice and not a mere money-getting trade."

That is what the Florida supreme court said in January of this year.

But let's look at the schedule of minimum fees adopted by the Dade County Bar Association in June of this year.

"... your association has adopted the following schedule of fair minimum fees to be charged by practitioners. To charge less would be considered unfair competition and a lowering of the standards of our profession. In all cases where a client is unable to pay the minimum fee stated he should be referred to the legal aid committee for disposition. We emphasize that this schedule represents minimum fees, exclusive of costs, and is not to be considered as usual or standard fees. Large fees may and should be charged when the circumstances so justify."

And, in the appended schedule there is listed two items, one after the other: "Divorce, $100. Allimony, $100. Unconnected with divorce, $100." Which seems to add up to $200, instead of $100, for the vast majority of cases involving severance of the marital ties.

All I can make out of it is that the Florida supreme court's code of ethics and the Dade Bar Association's schedule of minimum fees appear to contradict each other. Or, if you care to put it this way, the bar association's schedule of fees violates the supreme court's code of ethics.

Granted And Conceded. President Gray's letter is too lengthy for reproduction. It runs to four pages, typewritten, single-spaced. A great deal of it is taken up with assertions of the public-spirited, civic mindedness of the legal profession as a whole, and in Miami particularly. It tells how lawyers give time and effort to such causes as the Community Chest, the U. S. O. drive, etc. How the lawyers alone support the legal aid committee which furnishes free legal service at all times to the "underprivileged."

(May I ask, how about folks unable to pay a $200 lawyer's fee for divorce and alimony, but who yet don't come into the "underprivileged" class? Unless the privilege they lack is the privilege of paying $200 fees?)

I've no doubt all President Gray says about the generosity of lawyers is true. I know a lot of lawyers myself and, almost without exception, they're pretty good guys.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Jews and Bolshevism NEW YORK, June 29.—I am afraid this one will stir up the animals and set them to snarling and lunging, but I have been observing something lately which puzzles me and doubtless many of you.

Now, of course, we all know that Bolshevism or Communism has been widely identified with Jewishness not only by Adolf Hitler at home and abroad but in our own midst by many citizens, not necessarily hateful but some of them just thoughtless or incapable of actual thought. As to that even those who most sincerely abhor racial and religious persecution are constantly embarrassed, nevertheless, in their denials of the Hitlerian preaching by the constant recurrence in the news of Muscovite plotting of such names as Gerson, Isaacs, Kaufman, Gitlow, Gold, and Weisbord.

They make it difficult and in many cases impossible to unconvinced those who believe that Jews are, if not necessarily Bolsheviks, merely because they are Jews. Then, anyway strongly predisposed to Communism. The Jewish people owe much of their suffering to such. But very strangely, some of the most evil propaganda and incitement comes from a Catholic priest, Father Coughlin, and one or two others of the same ilk, aided by intemperate publications, and that brings me to the point of my discussion.

These Are Not Jews For it seems to me that these reverends and the men of militant piety who propagate their stuff in print would do well to weed their own patch and explain how it comes to be filled with names as Hogan, Curran, Ryan, Cannon, Madden, Dun, Bridges, O'Connor, Moddy, Foster and Quill on the roster of those who are either avowed Communists of one stripe or another, or so closely associated with Communism and so faithful to the party line as to be indistinguishable from the veriest bolo in the Kremlin.

These distinctly are not Jewish names, nor are the men who bear them Jews, unless it be argued that a natural born Dunn becomes a Jew when he adopts Communism as his political faith or vice. Not even Hitler has given us that suggestion, so I think it is reasonable to assume that these individuals are still Irish in the racial sense, although American by citizenship—thanks to an expatriating flaw in the constitution. Men who bear these Irish names are among the most active and militant advocates and fighters on behalf of the Communist program, and the fact that some of them are said to be practicing Catholics only confuses the confusion.

I should like to know whether this indicates a identity of Communism and Irishness and, if not, how it can be argued that the Gersons, Isaacs, Golds and so forth prove by their activities and sympathies that Jewishness is Communism and vice versa.

Now I know and can hereby recognize that Father Coughlin and his team have made the small concession that a Jew may be a non-Communist or anti-Communist—which is generous of them, to be sure—but the fact remains that they have established a suspicion on the Jew. The burden of proof is on the individual Jew who may never have indicated any interest in Communism—much less a practicing belief.

A Great Puzzle I do not understand this recent increase in the number and power of the Irish in the ranks of the Communists and their fellow-travelers; nor do I suggest the parallel thought that because so many prominent Communists and fellow-travelers have Irish names and faces, then Communism and Irishness are one. It is, as I have said, a great puzzle—the more so in view of the well-known conflict of the church and Communism and of the attitude of the church toward Fascist Franco in Spain, whose fight was indorsed as a holy war against Communism.

That is about all. I just don't get the idea and would like to know why these men of that cloth and their lay propagandists of the same cloth and race don't turn around and uproot the evil growth in the realm in which they have the most influence.

'Snakelist' Foes.

To consign his foes to death with a witch doctor in Botofogo, Brazil, has devised a "snakelist." On a sidewalk he placed a live snake in a bottle, which weighed down strips of paper on which were listed the names of 15 men and women whose death the voodoo doctor sought to bring about by this means. The usual means are the 100-reis stogie, yellow manioc flour, and the dead chicken at the crossroads.

Japan Makes Rubber.

Synthetic rubber better than raw rubber has been developed at the experiment station in Osaka, Japan, and soon will be turned out on an industrial scale at a new factory in Yawata. It was perfected under the leadership of Dr. Kiyosaki Sumiya. He believes it is the world's best synthetic rubber in its insulation against electricity and freedom from oxidation.

Dog Name Irks Town.

Residents of Dingo, Australia, are tired of living in a town named after a dog. Dingo is the name of a breed of Australian dog and when mail arrives addressed to John Jones, Dingo, it is too much like being called a name, they say. People of Ceratodus, named after a lung fish, and those of Green Pigeon don't seem to resent their town names so much.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today. From the news columns of Friday, June 30, 1916: "El Paso, Texas, June 29.—The twenty-five Negro troopers of the Tenth Cavalry who, at Carizal, have been central figures in one of the most exciting chapters of the Mexican situation, are safely out of Mexico."

And Fifty Years Ago. From the news columns of Tuesday, June 30, 1891: "The third number of The Period, Atlanta's new illustrated weekly, is fully up to the high standard established by this excellent publication. It is evident that The Period is 'here to stay.'"

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"NO MEASURE DANCED" Mr. Harry Lee has taken a feminine heel and a story which has its background a department store, and done a book, his second. It is going to be a far greater success than his first novel and one which should gain for him some very real prestige for this young man of Atlanta who, definitely, is going places.

I say that Lilly is a heel and immediately retract the statement. If she be a heel she has much company. Mr. Lee has been a bit more cruel with his people of the store than Mr. Sinclair Lewis was with the real estate people in "Babbitt."

There are, I am sure, heels in all businesses. I have met some, even in the newspaper business. Not many, to be sure. But some. The newspaper business still is a bit freer and easier on personalities than any other business, I think. This may be open to argument. Nevertheless, it has its own share of heels.

Mr. Lee simply took all those he had encountered and put them in one book, or one story. The result is a book which will be read. The total sales ought to go rather high on this book. If this does happen it will rejoice his friends almost as much as he. He deserves it.

It is a book with a story. The story is pretty sure to be bought by some movie company because it is a real moving story. The movies don't get so many good stories these days. Even if they do twist the ending, which would not really be necessary, it will be a good story for them.

I think you will like it, even though you do not like Lilly. The characters will all come alive for you and you may as well read it now, getting a sheet of the manuscript to go along with it if you choose. Because very soon now people will be asking if you've read it.

BUSINESS OF A CAREER The story is not merely one of a girl who begins as a bundle wrapped in a department store and of her ruthless, cruel climb to the top, playing all her cards close to her vest, so to speak.

It is the story of what happens to a woman who gives herself utterly to a career. She takes, and gives, in this process, a lot of punching around. And, as in a veteran prize fighter who has taken a lot of punches, her hide toughens up and she gets used to figurative or literal blood. The sight of a prostrate foe, broken and beaten, while it may bring a few qualms in the far reaches of the night when one can't sleep and must think, becomes a sort of parade. After awhile, a fighter once told me, the bloody faces of defeated opponents cease to have any identity in the mind and become after one is at the top, merely a lot of faces all of which look alike.

Lilly's figurative hide got toughened up, too, so that she was able to trample down those who had helped her and climb over them to a better job and to more money. She was able to shake off the memory of the faces, although at times the memory of them worried her. I guess they worry, briefly, all the Lillies, male and female, of this world.

Lilly was not all hardness. She added the chromium and steel as she went along. I've seen that happen to people. They make a decision and all the desires and ambitions which once had an appeal become subjugated to the one big one—to get ahead.

She did it. It was a long, hard climb, but she made it. And, if at the end the taste of it was as bitter as the poets say aloe are, there still was nothing left to be done about it. She had her bitterness and she must needs go on and play out the game, slipping slowly back into the minor leagues and finding little sympathy on the way down.

It's a story. You'll want to read this story of Lilly and her climb.

NON-FICTION Mr. Lee's book not only is a good story and a well-done job of work, but it also is an escape from the war.

If you just must read nothing but war, William Shirer's "Berlin Diary" will be of interest. It is a diary, not a novel. It is a record of some six years in Germany as a newspaper man and as a radio commentator from Berlin and other capitals of Europe.

Those who think there is something preposterous about reports of censorship from Germany, and those who doubt that the ability of the Germans to keep a whole people in ignorance, will do well to read this diary.

He went through the early days of Hitler, saw some of the Polish battles, entered Paris in a German staff car, stood outside the railroad car in the Compiegne forest when the French surrendered.

It is a very good book for understanding the political and, more important, the psychological points of this war and of the development of the Nazi party.

It is a frightening sort of book, because one sees the Nazis have planned so much better than anyone else. It is a book not to miss because it is a diary, a day-to-day development.

So, this week try Mr. Lee's "No Measure Danced" for your novel and Mr. Shirer's "Berlin Diary" for your non-fiction. You'll like them both.

It Would Still Be a Wilderness If the Pioneers Had Brought No Women

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

All the world makes a joke of the typical American's subservience to his women. "In America," say the wits, "the wife wears the pants." Men labor to make money for their wives to spend. Maggie and Jiggs are typical.

Certainly it is true that American women have more authority and are treated better than any other women in the world. If the husband isn't mean, the wife is boss.

This arrangement probably originated in pioneer days when men outnumbered women and treated them with exaggerated chivalry. Scarcity made women precious.

Whatever its origin may have been, the custom did much to civilize America. It hastened the building of churches and schools. It built up industry and encouraged the manufacture of "conveniences."

Whether the present situation is good or bad depends on the kind of woman who does the bossing and the kind of bossing she does. Since the poets have taught us to believe that love means more to women than to men, we think the gentler sex has more liking and capacity for romance.

But since the beginning of history and legend, man has selfishly and recklessly gone adventuring, risking his neck for the fun of it, while his spouse, hungering for security, has urged prudence and caution. Always the man has Recently, for no special reason, I've been delving into annals of the grand old west—from the 'forty-niners of California to the Jesse James era. Stuff written by contemporaries—not "western" yarns hatched for the pulps by writers who have never traveled east of Pittsburgh.

I have been impressed by the light touch—not to say levity—with which the recorders of the news of that day handled the casual lynchings of horse thieves, stage robbers and other offensive persons.

Such incidents were humorous to the extreme. They provided clean, innocent fun for writer, reader and all concerned except, perhaps, the principals in the rope dramas.

Indeed, if the general atmosphere of the reports may be considered, the gentleman in suspense enjoyed the spotlight and his final drink with the head man of the Vigilantes. So few of us get an opportunity to star.

There was one drawback. It was "one performance only." And no matter how big a hand the heroic leading man received, he couldn't respond with an encore, couldn't take a curtain—and couldn't read next day's press notices.

The bad man of today, I should think, would try to arrange a preview—with sound effects. It would be a rehearsal, coupled with a 30-day respite so he could read the columns and check up on the radio appeal and learn how well the great American public thought he had done.

From the reviews of some previews I have read the star might gladly telephone the "main stranger," as the boss of the citizens' committee was so aptly termed, to bring on the rope and close the engagement.

Where's Boston?
Queer about news centers. Datelines in the papers. New York grabs most space. More things center in New York. Except in Washington—and that's political stuff. Chicago gets a share of space.

I've been thinking about Boston. Once America's principal city. Still a big town. Important town. But how many Boston datelines do you see?

If you look over the nation's dailies you may note that Atlanta gets a good break. More than any other southern city, I think. Perhaps because the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service all have strong divisional offices here. I think the dailies of the country-at-large print more Atlanta datelines than they do Boston's.

mature age who considers himself of average intelligence than when he yanks and pulls on an office building or store door until he has almost busted a rib while impatient people wait in line—and the sweet young girl just behind him remarks: "The brass plate says 'PUSH.'"

Get Packed, Girls!

Vacationists returning from old St. Simons report the island—and its beaches—are getting too crowded for fun. The reason—500 soldiers from Camp Stewart over there every day. Not that they're not welcome.

It ought to be nice for the girls. Beach resorts have always suffered a shortage of men.

Rural storekeeper in the Tennessee hills complained bitterly about that region's first military invasion since the Confederates searched the mountains for fellows who wouldn't join up. The invaders were the soldiers engaged in huge military maneuvers. The complaint was that they "plumb cleaned out" his store except for red calico, side-meats and snuff. Oh yes, they paid for everything, but how can a man run a store with no stock in it?

Ever since I have been connected with this estimable newspaper there has reposed in the bookcase against the south wall a volume I never expected to find of practical purpose. It is "Municipal Year Book of Seattle, 1913."

But you never can tell. Breezes blow strongly through my window. And that generous contribution from Seattle is just the right weight to hold down a stack of country weeklies which had insisted on blowing off my desk.

30 Million Women Aid Red Cause, Says Pravda

MOSCOW, June 29.—(P)—More than 30,000,000 women are working behind Soviet Russian lines to bolster the Soviet war effort against Germany, Pravda (Communist party newspaper) declared today.

The newspaper said 19,000,000 women were toiling in the fields and 11,000,000 in factories and offices, besides the thousands who had gone to the front in medical service.

"Women are useful in military units and military offices," Pravda said, "but the main task now is work in the rear. No tractor, machine or combine should stop."

Izvestia (government newspaper) said:
"In the hour of the people's holy war against the Fascist hordes, the responsibility has grown for every Soviet woman to assure in the rear a victory over the enemy on the front. No doubt, glorious Soviet women will fulfill their duty in fighting spirit."

DO WE FAIL TO SEE RECREATION NEEDS?

Editor Constitution: For over thirty years I have been a daily reader of The Atlanta Constitution. Frequently you sense my feelings, and present policies that I endorse in the editorial columns.

Your editorial on last Wednesday concerning the state educational program in which you commend Governor Talmadge for the many good things he had accomplished, yet you very aptly called attention to dangers that belie if certain policies are further pursued.

Friday in the column, "One Word More," and in the last paragraph entitled "Here at Home," Ralph McGill most emphatically called attention to the "cancers" of the social problem, poverty, sickness and neglect, and may I add to the above, ignorance, which is a probable cause of the apathy he mentioned. In medicine to give an opiate to alleviate suffering except in the most extreme circumstances is condemned as unsound in principle, for the simple reason that it does not remove the cause. In our preservation of democracy and building for defense, we sometimes appear so derailed in our duties to an all-time program. We literally tear off our shirts to place recreation for soldiers in our midst, and God knows they need it, yet we miserably fail to see the needs in recreation, health, relief measures, etc., among a possible 100,000 children in our city, and they are the citizens and soldiers of tomorrow.

May I again commend you for the good work you are doing in calling attention to fundamental and vital matters.

U. S. PATENT LAWS DECLARED UNJUST.

Editor Constitution: I notice that the government is calling for inventors, but if the young men of this country only knew how unjust are the laws pertaining to patents, they would steer clear of this pot-rock.

The life of a patent is seventeen (17) years. After that your invention becomes public property and may be used by any one.

This patent law was passed eighty years ago, 1861, at a time when the senator of South Carolina had withdrawn from congress and the senator from Massachusetts had it all his way.

When this law was passed practically all the patents of successful inventions were held by southern men. At the close of the War Between the States these patents were taken over by eastern capitalists and many of the large fortunes of today were built at the expense of a southern man's genius and hard work.

After eighty years it is time for an amendment, which would at least give the inventor of a successful machine the same compensation it gives to an officer who has served in a war. Because the very law which takes the inventor's life work and successful invention from him, does so under the excuse: "It is of vast benefit to our country."

Twenty-House Block Transferred in Vidalia

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VIDALIA, Ga., June 29.—A block of 20 houses located in the northern part of Vidalia has been sold to two purchasers, James Yawn taking title to 10 of the houses and J. W. Vann taking title to 10.

The property was transferred by the Musgrove estate, and Sewell Courson, of Soperton, represented the sellers. The houses are two and three-room buildings built for renting.

DEATH ENDS CAREER—Ignace Jan Paderewski, world-famous pianist and former premier of Poland, is shown in Atlanta on one of his rare public appearances. The occasion was the keyboard master's last visit to Atlanta in April, 1939, when he stepped out on the rear platform of his private railroad car. The picture was taken on the train's arrival here, a day before Paderewski moved a vast audience at the city auditorium when he gave an unforgettable performance, a concert marked by extreme poignancy. Strakacz, his secretary, at right.

PADEREWSKI, THE GREAT—These photographs illustrate how half a century treated Ignace Jan Paderewski, one of the most famous musicians who ever lived. Here the camera shows 52 years with Paderewski. Left to right: (1) Paderewski at the time of his debut in Vienna in 1887; (2) on his first American tour in 1891; (3) as director of the Warsaw Conservatory in 1909; (4) as premier of Poland in 1919; (5) arriving for a tour of the United States in 1928; (6) as he appeared on his last visit to Atlanta in 1939.

'Other Woman' Testifies Today In Joss Trial

Doctor Accused of Slaying Wife in Maine Home.

BATH, Me., June 29.—(P)—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Mayo, 32, will be called tomorrow as a prosecution witness against Dr. Merrill E. Joss, 34, the man she said wrote her "love notes," the last of them only a short time before his wife was found dying in the cellar of the Joss home.

Mrs. Mayo has been described by police as the "other woman," in the case.

Dr. Laverne Harris Joss, a native of Jackson, Ala., was slain the night of March 27.

Joss has told police that he was accosted by a bearded narcotics addict outside his home the night of the slaying and that he returned from an errand to find his wife dying, her head crushed by terrific blows. Joss said the man threatened when he refused to give him narcotics.

Miss Julia Hilton, 19, a Bowdoin student nurse, who visited Dr. Joss' home that night has testified she met a "queer looking individual" as she left about 8:05 o'clock.

Paderewski Dies in N. Y. of Pneumonia

Polish defense and more recently in promoting the sale of United States defense bonds.

He had not actively appeared on the concert stage for some time but spent his leisure moments at the keyboard of the instrument through which he gained worldwide fame.

Paderewski, pianist, composer and Polish patriot, was probably the first world-famous musician in history to abandon his art at the height of his success, devote himself to liberating and unifying his country and then, his program balked by politics, return to still greater international acclaim on the concert stage.

In the historic pact which he took in the development of Poland, he spent his fortune of $2,700,000. In later years, upon resuming his music, he explained he needed work to live. At the age of 75 he starred in a British movie.

Resigned as Premier.

From the time he resigned as premier of Poland on December 9, 1919, after less than a year in office, he kept aloof from politics, but he never lost his ardent patriotism. Until January 28, 1921, in fact, he represented Poland at the League of Nations and in other occasional capacities. Then he retired to a 2,600-acre ranch in Santa Barbara county, California, the remnants of an extensive holding of which the greater part had been sold to provide funds for Polish propaganda. It was from this home, which he finally sold in 1934, that he emerged to resume concert work in 1923.

While known primarily as a master of the piano, Paderewski was a teacher of distinction in his younger years and scored successes too as a composer. In the latter field his "Minuet" was known to all lovers of music, even where tastes did not run to the heights of classicism, for its rhythm and melody. Experts praised his concerto for piano and orchestra in A minor (opus 17) and a symphony in B minor presented in London and Boston in 1909. Also he wrote the opera "Manru" which made its debut in Dresden in 1901 and was given in New York in 1902. All told more than 20 recognized works were credited to him.

Greatest Fame.

But his greatest fame was won on the concert stage where he was a master both as musician and showman. When America first saw and heard him in the early 90s, his boldly-chiseled features were set off by dark mustache and goatee and crowned with a leonine mane of golden hair which rose and fell as his flying hands wrung startling volume from his instrument in the loud passages or stroked delicate gradations of tone down to soft phrases that seemed to sigh away to nothingness. Brilliant technique was recognized as his even by critics who were inclined to quarrel with the unorthodoxy of some of his interpretations.

In those days he played under strong lights, seemingly oblivious of his audiences. On his late tours in the early '30s, when his hair and famous goatee were gray and he had lost much of his fiery im-

Paderewski Death Leaves City Saddened

Emotional Adventure His Last Recital Here Remembered.

Paderewski is dead. To Atlanta music lovers, news last night that death had stiller forever the magic hand of one of the best-loved musicians in the world brought extreme sadness.

To many persons here, the death of this great musician came as a distinct shock. They were evident a feeling of personal loss. Death had come to an old friend.

The keyboard master had here several times during his long and brilliant career. But Atlanta remembered best his last concert in this city, in April, 1939. That, all who attended agreed, was more than a recital in the municipal auditorium. It was an experience, an emotional adventure.

Caught Poignancy. Mozelle Horton Young, the music critic for The Constitution, caught the poignancy of that recital in her review of the concert, one of the last that Paderewski played.

Miss Young wrote: "When Paderewski walked up the stage of the auditorium for the last encore of his memorabilia concert I knew that something had gone out of my life that I never enter there again. But I believe that all the thousands present to pay tribute to this man—one of the greatest artists to ever live—felt the same way about it."

Last Note Faded. "Almost everyone had to wipe a tear or two as the last note faded away."

"When Paderewski entered the stage the vast auditorium stood with one accord and stood in homage to the artist they loved and revered so genuinely. His again was Paderewski the indomitable, feeble and tottering as yet distinguished and determined in bearing."

"And at the close of the program, I have never heard such an ovation, such an expression of appreciation. There were shouts, 'bravo' and storms of applause. An historic occasion was ended."

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

A. D. 6939. Do you remember the significance of that prospective date? The Westinghouse Company buried a Time Capsule in the center of the World's Fair grounds in 1939, not to be opened for 5,000 years. That capsule is made of hard alloy of copper, torpede shaped, seven and a half feet long and eight and three-fourths inches in diameter, cast in seven segments, screwed together with highly burnished seams. Within is a Pyrex glass column, set in water-repellent petroleum wax. This tube was washed, emptied of air, filled with humid nitrogen and packed with a "cross section of our times."

How could they be sure that anyone would find this relic of 20th century civilization? They compiled a Book of Record, bound in blue leather, and printed in Goudy type on permanent paper. They sent copies of the book to 2,000 libraries, museums, monasteries and temples around the world. They requested that the instructions in the book be translated at once, and filed, with the further request that in the future translations into new languages be promptly made. They recorded the latitude and longitude of the capsule's burial place, reduced to the third decimal point in seconds. And so forth.

What did they put in the Time Capsule to be opened A. D. 6939? Typical of common articles in use by the average person in 1939, they selected an alarm clock, a can opener, a pair of eye glasses, a fountain pen, a telephone, some toys, a rhinestone clip from Woolworth's, a handful of money, some seeds and a kit of cosmetics. A roll of sound movies included Jesse Owens running, Harvard-Yale football game, an all-star game between National and American baseball players, a shot of President Roosevelt pleading for peace at the Gettysburg anniversary, the Pacific fleet steaming out to sea, mechanized Army units at Fort Benning, the bombing of Canton, China, and a glimpse of the Soviet celebration on International Labor Day in the Red Square at Moscow.

On a tiny square of film they recorded "Sibelius' Finlandia," Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "Flat-foot Floggie With a Floy-Floy." They printed the complete text of "Gone With the Wind" and "Arrowsmith." They included a book by Dr. Morris Fishbein on medicine. Art is represented by Grant Wood's caustic cartoon, "Daughters of the American Revolution." Whole issues of current magazines were included. A morocco-bound edition of the Oxford Bible was also included. They asked four eminent men to write something in the way of a comment on our times to go in the Time Capsule. The men were Robert A. Milliken, Arthur H. Compton, Thomas Mann and Albert Einstein.

What would you have put in the capsule as a "cross section of our times?"

Chipman Stops Chicks, 4-0, After Crackers Lose First Game, 4-1

BY JACK TROY

Lefties Blossom Excuse, please, for pointing, but left-handers suddenly have come into their own in the sports realm.

Recently, in the space of two days, Memphis Chickasaw outpaws pitched three shutout games.

Frank Werk hurled a shutout against Chattanooga on a Thursday and it's hardly necessary to remind Cracker fans what happened Friday night. Wimpy Willis and Milton Shoffer, in case you came in late, blanked our noble lads in both ends of a double-header.

The real story is 26 consecutive scoreless innings in two days for Memphis lefties.

After all, in the last 10 days the Crackers have been beaten by vacuum cleaner salesman, Fuller Brush men and representatives of the old men's home of baseball. Still, they haven't lost any ground at all.

They've gained steadily.

So let the Memphis left-handers have their inning. It's high time they did.

In Golf, Too In Georgia golf, or specifically in the McBrayer brothers Invitation golf tournament over at the Callier Springs golf club, left-handers have stolen the show.

A prominent lefty, who does not care for his name to be used, writes in behalf of the portside clan, as follows:

Dear Sir:

"I am interested in the welfare of the left-handed golfers of this section and I would appreciate you giving this communication a hearing."

"The left-handers have emerged victoriously in four different tournaments and this included TWO PLAYING IN THE FINALS OF THE CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT."

"I have been playing golf in this section for a long time and I don't recall having seen this feat equalled before and the left-handers around Rome are certainly sticking out their chests and living a Tarzan yell."

"In the championship flight we find Jimmie 'Lefty' Murdock, professor of something or other and principal of the Tubize Mill school, where he graduated from the league-winning ball club several years ago. He is a real good left-hander and deserves all the credit for defeating C. B. 'Kit' Carson, of Rome, in one of the semi-final matches. In the other half of the finals we find Al Everett, the two-time runner-up and the two-time winner of the national left-handers' tournament. Everett entered the finals by defeating Harrison 'Woffie' King."

"Everett has played in several tournaments this summer, in and around Rome, and the best he can do is get a good shelling, and he may be in for one by this good old, baseball player, who hits a mighty wallop."

"P. S.: This tournament had 110 entrants."

Chance for W. O. W. O. Cheney should forthwith enter the Georgia State tournament to be played in a couple of weeks at East Lake.

The left-handers are having their day and there simply is no good reason why W. O., Ansley park's top southpaw, shouldn't try his luck.

Playing recently with fellow Crackers, Pindexter arrived at the green and addressed his caddie:

"Hey, boy, gimme that little stick!"

Top Slugging Race And in connection with all this southpaw business don't overlook Atlanta's Lester Burge and Nashville's Les Fleming.

The race for homer, runs batted in and runs scored honors involves these star lefties.

And a third left-hander, Oris Hookett, of Nashville, has entered the race as a dark horse.

An Optimist Harold Sargent, out at East Lake, is one of the most optimistic persons we've encountered recently.

Harold watched Prof. Mitchell Cox and I drive and then said, presumably to me, "Come out early some morning and I'll show you what you're doing wrong."

I couldn't possibly get there early enough, Harold.

Cobb Quit Game To Save Baseball Memory of Reality

By STEPHEN DOWN Before Youngsters Could Be Disillusioned by Slowing 'Old Man.'

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—If anyone has wondered why Ty Cobb quit baseball while he still was able to hit better than .300 and own an acre or two of outfield, here's one of the chief reasons:

He didn't want young fellows coming to ball games, gazing in disbelief at a low-geared, bay-windowed gent with the middle-age spread wheezing around out there, and muttering to themselves:

"So that's the great Ty Cobb. He must have been playing with the Elm Street Tigers instead of the Detroit Tigers when he made 10 those records."

A touch of pride, sure, but Ty smart enough to know that he was good, that to countless Americans, young and old, his name is a symbol of speed, dash, hitting ability, everything that goes to make up a great ball player, and that to destroy this picture in the hearts of the fans would be a crime, no less.

Everyone has had idols shattered, starting from the day it was discovered that Santa Claus didn't come down the chimney at all but as just pop with sofa pillow upholstery and a dime store beard. Any theatrical idol has killed his chance of immortality by countless farewell tours in which he public saw a puny-faced old man trying to go to throw his 1890 pants on, blissfully convinced he had lost none of his charm.

NOT FOR COBB. Nothing like that for Uncle Ty. No, sir. They wouldn't see the wrinkles on the Georgia Peach.

"I didn't want to, at my age and weight, disillusion a lot of people," he explains simply. "Then too, I was tired after being in the game 4 years. Also, I wanted to quit while I still was hitting better than .300, and they were catching up with me."

"And still another reason, I was getting apprehensive about getting hit. That Ray Chapman tragedy was fresh in my mind. I'd never been beaned. Once Walter Johnson, who never threw at a man

36-Hole Qualifying for National Scheduled on Tough Course.

By AL SHARP.

If you want to see some good golfers battling one of the toughest pars in the south, just wander out North Fulton way today. Because Pro Herb Norton is planning on making the course just as tough as they come around here.

The occasion will be the 36-hole qualifying for the National Public Links team which Atlanta will send to Spokane, Wash. Two rounds will be played, starting about 9 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., with three of the field gaining places on the team. Between 40 and 50 of the city's best public links players are expected to compete.

The North Fulton layout has a reputation of being hard to handle when the yardage is not stretched to the limit. Since "the $1,000,000 layout" was opened a year ago, the best score reported is a 69, just two under par, that Charlie Black shot.

There may have been lower scores with a conceded putt here and there during a friendly match, but no one is going to argue with you about the toughness of North Fulton.

Today when Dave Mitchell, former national public links champion; Luke Barnes, member of the Atlanta team three times in a row; Charlie Barnes, Fred Owens, Bob McCoy and the others start firing, it will be tougher than usual.

Norton is planning to stretch the course to 6,800 yards and put the pins in places only a magician could get near with a nine-iron and a ball. He is emphatic about par withstanding the charge of Atlanta's best public linksmen. Furthermore, he believes 150 will win one of the places.

And Herb ought to know. "I've been sleepless for the past few nights figuring up where those pins could be placed to make it tough on the qualifiers."

NORTH FULTON.

W. J. Devesee and Joe Wofford shared the bogey prize at North Fulton with 80's.

BOBBY JONES BOGEY.

Two players hit the winning number—79—in the blind bogey play at Bobby Jones. They were Jim Sargent and Sam Swilling.

Rambert Arrives Ready For Badly Needed Work

New Cracker Righthander Has Pitched Only 13 Innings for Montreal This Season.

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.

This is a story about a Rambert we'll watch at Ponce de Leon park.

Elmer (Pep) Rambert's his name and he arrived yesterday after three and a half days of driving from Montreal, Canada.

It will be recalled that Roxie Lawson refused to pitch for Atlanta and wired Earl Mann that "under existing conditions it is IMPRACTICABLE to report."

Now, Pep Rambert's just the guy who could use words like that without suggesting he had been to see a lawyer.

Elmer's a college man—Ohio State.

Funny thing. He went to Ohio State on a track scholarship. He was a hurdler. And at the Buckeye school he won letters in football, basketball and track. Everything but BASEBALL.

NO BASEBALL.

He played no baseball for the Buckeyes. Each spring term he'd play semi-pro ball at Nashville. His last year of semi-pro ball was in the coastal plains.

At any rate when Rambert finished at Ohio State he had played no college ball but he was well ahead of the collegians who had.

"I'm sure glad to be with Atlanta," Rambert said, in all sincerity. "I have wanted to be with the Crackers ever since I pitched a year for Savannah. When I heard Lawson wasn't going to report I went to the front office at Montreal and told them I'd be only too glad to go."

Rambert didn't have much of a chance to pitch for the Royals, but he did pitch 13 innings for the Boston Bees, hasn't pitched a game yet. He made his first road trip with the club recently. While he's in top shape, Rambert needs work. He has only pitched 13 innings this season.

HE'S A RIGHT-HANDER.

Accompanying the heavy-set six-footer here were Mrs. Rambert and attractive little blond daughter, Joan.

Taxes and taps were a couple of things that impressed the Ramberts most at Montreal. It costs five bucks a month for water to put in a car radiator, they pointed out. (Service stations still furnish air for the tires free.)

BUGLERS BUST.

They'd go to bed by taps and be aroused in the early hours by buglers. Soldiers drilled all over the place.

Rambert declared that if they'd spent much more time there daughter Joan would have been talking French.

Rambert recalled a great catch Shelly, of Knoxville, made at Ponce de Leon in '39. Rambert was pitching, and Les Burge hit

Team Match Is Set Wednesday Roche and Kent Face Two Bad Men

Team wrestling, by popular demand, will return to Atlanta Wednesday night when Abe Simon stages his heavyweight show at the City Auditorium. Rain and threatening weather forced a postponement of last week's card, scheduled for the ball park, so Simon decided against taking any more chances with the weather and is going back inside.

Dorv Roche and Harry Kent, two clever, likeable heavyweights, will be partners in the team competition against Babe Zaharias and Herbie Freeman, self-styled villains.

Zack Gaeck, highly-regarded newcomer, meets another stranger to Atlanta, Mark Hosley, of California, in the semi-final.

In the opening event Pat Newman will tangle with Lee Wycoff.

Klemmer Sets World Record In 400 Meters

Billy Brown Takes Two Events in National A. A. U. Carnival.

By BILL BONI.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—(AP) Fourteen bronzed huskies from the Olympic club in San Francisco won four individual titles, scored in 14 of the 21 events, and produced the only world record as they swept team honors for the third straight year today in the 53rd National A. A. U. senior track and field championships.

This was a great meet and it drew the greatest crowd in its long history. Some 25,000 spectators straggled through the afternoon at Franklin field and watched the westerners deliver the peak performance when their boy Grover Klemmer ran the fastest 400 meters a stop watch ever has recorded.

This blond, 20-year-old sophomore at the University of California, who also has equalled the world record for 440 yards, was clocked in 46 seconds flat by all three watches. He broke the tape six inches in front of Hubert Kerns and Cliff Bourland, of the Southern California A. A., whose time of 46.1 was equal to the former world record set by another California quarter-miler, Archie Williams, in 1936. Unofficially all five finishers were caught in under 47 seconds.

Next to Klemmer, leading candidates for the day's top honors were Fred Wolcott, the Rice Institute hurdling champion, and long lean Billy Brown, of Louisiana State, Wolcott, retaining both of his championships, equalled the world record and set up a meet record of 13.7 seconds at 110 meters and was only two-tenths of a second off the world record with a 2.28 blocking for 200 meters. In each race he won handily, by four feet over Joe Batiste at 110, by three yards over Harold Stickle at 200.

Brown also repeated in two events, the broad jump and high jump, and established a meet and U. S. citizen's record of 50 feet 11 1/2 inches in the latter. In all he scored 24 points, the top individual score.

DiMaggio Hits Career High in Game with Braves

Indians Lose As Ted Lyons Beats Bagby

Yanks Boost Lead to Game and Half; Red Sox Split.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP) Joe DiMaggio boomed his way into baseball's row of immortals today by hitting safely in his 41st and 42nd consecutive games, setting a new modern major league record, as the pace-setting New York Yankees trounced Washington in both games of a double-header, 9 to 4 and 7 to 5.

DiMaggio tied the old mark, established in 1922 by George Sisler, of the St. Louis Browns, with a double in the sixth inning of the opener and then carved himself a niche in the game's hall of fame with a sound single in the seventh frame of the nightcap.

A crowd of 31,000 sweltering fans turned out to see DiMaggio's successful bid for a new mark. For the record-minded there also was the Yankees' feat of stretching their home-run streak to 10 straight games as Tommy Henrich, Joe Gordon and Charley Keller connected for the circuit during the twin bill.

DiMaggio's double in the first game came off Dutch Leonard, veteran Washington knuckleballer, in the nightcap as the expense of Walter Matson, third of four Senators hurlers.

Joe was as happy as a 10-year-old with a new bicycle as he came back to the bench after setting his record, surrounded by his teammates and photographers, he grinned and said:

"Sure I feel great. Why shouldn't I? That's one record I've wanted to crack ever since I came up to the major leagues."

Joe vowed he would try to stretch his record to 100, which was good for 19 years, and will attempt to hit safely in his 43rd straight contest when the team takes on Boston Tuesday.

McCord Tire Service Extends Their Discount Sale Through July

Seat Covers, Seiberling Tires in Sale

Like Discounts as Long as Stocks Last, Says Walthall.

The McCord Tire Service, owned and operated by Ed Walthall, located at the corner of Spring and Harris streets, close-in downtown section, has shown fast and continuous growth since its establishment in 1939.

The concern is well-known hands of Shell oil products, Seiberling tires and batteries and a line of attractive seat covers.

A recent expansion move was made by Mr. Walthall, when a large space adjoining was taken to facilitate the handling and storage of cars for his customers. It is a free storage for patrons, available 12 hours each day.

Red Patterson is the very efficient service manager as well as front salesman. He attributes the greatly increased wash and wax business of the concern to the free storage facilities, though smilingly he admits that the two-cent discount on gasoline might have something to do with it.

Mr. Walthall states that his concern will continue to supply both retail and wholesale market in his very complete line of goods and greentown covers at his discount prices. Walthall says he is able to do this because he foresees some time when the demand that was coming seat covers this year, and continued for delivery over a six-month period three times his normal supply. These coverings come in the main of custom-tailored DISCOUNT SALE CONTINUES—Here is shown the McCord Tire Service, corner Spring and Harris streets, where a discount sale on seat covers and Seiberling tires is going on. Top insert is Ed Walthall, owner and manager.

Dress Home Up Now With Chamberlin Weather Strips

Factory-trained experts—mechanics schooled in the highest standard of workmanship—are ready to explain to home-owners, without charge, what the Chamberlin Metal Weather Strip Company can do to make your home more comfortable and to lower fuel costs.

Now, during the warm days of summer, when windows and doors can be left open for workmen to apply the best of remedies to keep out the cold that is sure to come within a few months, is the time to consider this improvement and addition to your home.

B. R. Hendrick, Dixie district manager for the Chamberlin company, states that home-owners are sometimes confused by the apparently conflicting claims of products designed to save money on fuel bills and otherwise make the home more comfortable. Thousands of home-owners, he says, frequently testify that fuel savings are actually realized in individual cases, but that these percentages of saving are not applicable simultaneously.

For instance, he says: "A home costs $100 to heat, before applying any of the products mentioned. Then weather strips are applied with a saving of 25 per cent, leaving a fuel cost of $75. Next year a stoker is installed with a possible saving of 25 per cent more. But this stoker saving is 25 per cent of $75, not 25 per cent of $100. The fuel saving percentage of each additional product, as given, therefore, applies only on the actual net fuel cost—not on the original fuel bill of $100."

"The next question that comes up is, 'Which of these investments represents the largest return in respect to its cost?'"

"Independent surveys, technical studies, home owners' testimony, all verify the fact that weather stripping, expertly installed, realizes greater fuel saving per dollar of cost than any other possible home improvement."

Municipal Market Folks Close July 4

"Due to the fact that the great number of those engaged in the Municipal Market on Edgewood avenue wish to enjoy a full holiday on Friday, July Fourth, the market will forego its usual custom of closing for a half holiday on Wednesday, the 2d, but will remain open all that day until 6 o'clock in the evening, Thursday it will observe the same hours, so that shoppers can well prepare for the Fourth."

After an all-day holiday—the market closing for the entire day on July 4, the market will observe its usual Saturday hours. Patrons will find the stalls at the market will be supplied with fresh vegetables of all kinds, and many other fine edibles scattered throughout the stalls and the meat markets and stores at the market. After a clean-up in your home of good things to eat on the holiday, Saturday would be a fine day to visit the market and restock.

Daly's Health Club Benefit To Hundreds

Popular Place on North Broad Street Is Largely Patronized.

Are you one of those enjoying the fine health benefits at Daly's Health Club, at 59 1-2 North Broad street?

This club now occupies two large floors—the second and third—at 59 1-2 North Broad street, with a large additional roof service as a solarium, with its splendid equipment and preparation for sun baths. The club extends from Peachtree street through to Broad, 30 feet in width and 120 feet in depth. Thus the three floors give a working space of more than 10,000 square feet, and every inch of it is well utilized.

On one of the three floors a large room for exercising by mechanical devices—such as rowing, the toughest sport one can engage in, mountain climbers for road work, bicycles and other exercising devices. Near them are the shower baths and steam rooms and the "rubbing" rooms, where three expert masseurs know how to administer salt rubs, alcohol and mineral oil rubs. Just a step or two removed are comfortable rest rooms, where complete relaxation and a little "snooze" can be enjoyed.

On a floor higher is the four-wall handball court, laid out to regulation size, 48x24 feet, also a well outlined regulation badminton court. In fact, there is room and equipment and provision for practically all kinds of sport and exercise.

Before applicants are accepted and taken for a course in Daly's Health Club, there are given a thorough medical examination to disclose just the type of exercise they should take. This is a precaution always taken to insure the needed body-building or body-reducing qualities desired, without the slightest harmful results.

Among these hundreds who are now visiting the club are scores of ladies. These are carefully looked after by Mrs. Daly, who is as efficient in her plans of health details as Daly himself, having had 15 years' experience in this type of work.

The club is open to the ladies from 8:30 to 11:30 every day except Saturday and Sunday. It is open every day for men from 11:30 to 6:30 except Sunday.

J. P. McRAE DAIRY—Above shows a portion of the new milking barn of the McRae dairy, on Cascade road, where 74 high-bred cows are furnishing wholesome milk and butter to hundreds of customers.

McRae Dairy Keeps Many Homes in Milk

Model Place on Cascade Road Has Customers All Over the City.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

With a large and modern milking barn just completed, which is kept as neat and clean as the proverbial pin, and with 74 high-grade, well-kept cows from which the latest electric milkers extract hundreds of gallons of rich, wholesome milk twice daily, the W. P. McRae Dairy, Inc., out a few miles from the city on the Cascade road, is just now serving a large list of customers.

The McRae dairy handles only Grade A raw milk, "with that sweet Jersey taste," as Mr. McRae describes it on an attractive little blotter passed out to his friends and customers. Deliveries of his excellent sweet milk, his churned buttermilk and pure butter are made in four large white trucks—one for wholesale delivery and three for the retail customers. These latter customers reside practically all over the city, with the larger proportion of them on the west side of the city and in the West End section.

Mr. McRae is the owner and manager, with the able assistance of his wife, who is just now enjoying a little vacation in Florida. He lives on the property, close adjoining his dairying outfit, in a most attractive, unique log house—a home built by himself a few years ago from somewhat small pine logs, hewn on his 28-acre tract. However, so artistically are the logs cut, as carefully in length and size as lumber would be shaped, and so smoothly are the opening between the logs filled with concrete, that his six rooms appear much above the average home.

"A-join" since 1936—a growing all the time," is a very conservative statement on the literature of the McRae dairy. His dairy lands afford fine pasturage for the cows, and augmenting this Mr. McRae says he feeds his milkers on Larro feed, "as it is about the best I can find, and the most productive of good, rich milk," he says.

McRae drivers of his fleet of trucks are on the job every morning at 3 o'clock, and before hundreds of their customers are ready for breakfast their bottle of rich, wholesome milk—either sweet or buttermilk, or rich cream—is at drop in and inspect this clean and inviting dairy—see the sleek, well-fed and well-kept cows—nearly a hundred of them—see how sanitary and well the milk is handled—and then let Mr. McRae call your attention to two milk-manned sheep in a near-by inclosure—just a hobby of his. There is nothing unusual about them, "but I always did like sheep," he said. His telephone number is Raymond 6436 if you should desire a good reliable milkman—and who doesn't?

Insurance Men To Visit Idaho For Convention

Delegation of 8, Representing Pacific Mutual, To Go to Sun Valley.

Eight representatives of the Emory L. Jenks general agency of Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company will leave here this week to participate in the company's national convention July 7, 8, 9.

Mr. Jenks announced that the trips were awarded to the members of the group on a basis of their excellent production records during the past 12 months.

Following the convention, the entire party will visit the Pacific

In beauty and performance R & M air circulators are outstanding. The bright finished guards and blades and the highly polished chrome plated stem contrast pleasingly with the black morocco finish of the motor and base. The four-arm base is neat and attractively streamlined. It permits the fan to be placed close up to counter corners or in room corners where a round type base is impractical.

Johnson Holds Lead of 5,152 Over O'Daniel

Texas Representative
Seeks Senate Seat of
Morris Sheppard.

DALLAS, June 29.—(AP)—Representative Lyndon Johnson, who claimed the President wanted him to succeed the late Morris Sheppard, held his lead today as returns trickled in from yesterday's special senatorial election.

Running second was Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, political miracle man, twice swept into office to the tune of mountain music.

Returns to the Texas election bureau at 6:30 o'clock (central standard time) tonight from all the state's 254 counties, 112 complete, gave Johnson a 5,152 lead over the governor. Johnson had 167,276; O'Daniel 162,124; Attorney General Gerald C. Mann 134,871, and Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee investigating un-Americanism, 77,275. A plurality is necessary to elect.

With 541,546 ballots tabulated, election bureau officials estimated the total would not top 575,000, far short of the million political observers had predicted for the torrid contest.

Johnson, who ran on a platform of "Roosevelt and Unity" took an early lead, which once passed 13,000, and never was overtaken.

O'Daniel, behind for the first time in a Texas election, wanted to go to Washington to seek more federal pension money and "twist the tails of professional, pissing-footing, back-slapping, pie-eating politicians, who couldn't run a peanut wagon successfully."

The winner will serve until January, 1943, filling the unexpired term of the late Senator Sheppard, father of prohibition, and the late Senator Andrew Jackson Houston, who died last Thursday.

O'Daniel appointed Houston, son of Texas' greatest hero, Sam Houston, as interim senator until election of a new one.

Johnson Holds Lead of 5,152 Over O'Daniel

Texas Representative
Seeks Senate Seat of
Morris Sheppard.

DALLAS, June 29.—(AP)—Representative Lyndon Johnson, who claimed the President wanted him to succeed the late Morris Sheppard, held his lead today as returns trickled in from yesterday's special senatorial election.

Returns to the Texas election bureau at 6:30 o'clock (central standard time) tonight from all the state's 254 counties, 112 complete, gave Johnson a 5,152 lead over the governor. Johnson had 167,276; O'Daniel 162,124; Attorney General Gerald C. Mann 134,871, and Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee investigating un-Americanism, 77,275. A plurality is necessary to elect.

With 541,546 ballots tabulated, election bureau officials estimated the total would not top 575,000, far short of the million political observers had predicted for the torrid contest.

Johnson, who ran on a platform of "Roosevelt and Unity" took an early lead, which once passed 13,000, and never was overtaken.

Rations, Raids, Realism Alter British Dress

Attics Getting Attention Shoppers Once Gave Bond Street.

LONDON, June 29.—(P)—Rationing, raids and realism are altering Britain's sartorial scheme, which for years has been regarded as the most conservatively correct of the world.

The Briton who wouldn't step off Bond street for a suit is now digging in the attic for something abandoned to the moths years ago, and the most proper of proper ladies are tripping bare-legged down Regent street.

Starch officially disappeared from shirts when the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street—the Bank of England—pontifically proclaimed that its clerks could wear brighter clothes.

No longer are new clothes officially connected with smartness. The government, in fact, is launching a campaign with the slogan, "old clothes are the smartest."

Lots of people are then in style. Here is a typical street scene today:

A man in his middle forties in gray flannels topped by a once severe black morning coat walking with a pretty woman in slacks, her blonde hair tied back with a turban.

Formal striped pants worn with a pullover sweater and a tweed coat by another stroller.

With laundry prices what they are and short rationing in effect, British shirts are being put to a severe test. Many are getting a rest only on weekends.

Shirts with the collars attached, a style which never fully caught on anyhow, are as scarce as lemons in this summer of the war.

Straw hats, likewise, are seldom seen. Hats are not rationed, but they are regarded generally as a luxury.

Conclusion: The most popular garbs of all are the uniforms of the fighting forces.

Weather Breaks RAF Raid String

LONDON, June 29.—(P)—RAF fighters made another sweep of the northern French coast this afternoon without encountering a German plane, the British air ministry reported tonight.

On this side of the channel, up to 8 p. m., there were no reports of any German air action.

"Extremely bad" weather compelled the RAF to suspend its night offensive upon Germany last night and ended the air-force record for consecutive nightly attacks upon Reich territory.

It was the first night in the last 17 in which there was no air attack upon the Rhineland, the Ruhr and other areas of northwest Germany.

German planes were over Great Britain in what was described officially as "very small number" during the night. It was believed they took off from bases in occupied France and flew relatively short distances.

Defense Money Boosts Sale of Luxury Goods

Autos, Jewelry, Furniture Lead List in Retail Sales.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(P)—The Commerce Department said today that increased income from the defense program had resulted in huge increases in purchases of "luxury and semiluxury" goods.

Income payments to individuals are currently estimated at the rate of $85,000,000,000 a year, compared with $76,000,000,000 for 1940, the department said. Total retail sales for the first five months of the year are more than 15 per cent above "the comparatively good dollar volume" of the same period last year, the report added.

"Especially notable has been the tendency for the largest percentage sales increases to appear in luxury and semiluxury lines," the department said. "Thus, on the basis of reports from independent stores in 34 states to the department, the largest gains in sales during the first five months of this year compared to sales in the corresponding period of 1940 were scored by automobile dealers (37 per cent), jewelry stores (28 per cent), furniture and household equipment stores, including radio (22 per cent) and sporting goods stores (15 per cent)."

The department also reported that sales of 2,905 wholesale firms, representing 35 kinds of trade, totaled $303,634,000 in May, an increase of 32 per cent over May, 1940, and 4 per cent over April, 1941.

Backlogs in Steel Continue To Rise

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(P)—Sales running 35 to 50 per cent above capacity continue to pile up order backlogs of all major steel companies, the magazine "Steel" reported today but added that many of these orders probably will never be filled.

Delays will cause some prospective buyers to cancel their orders, the magazine said while "despite all precautions doubtless some consumers succeeded in ordering in duplicate, or even triplicate, from several mills and hence overbought."

Proposed rehabilitation of long idle and obsolete stacks promises to improve the supply of pig iron in the next few weeks. Since June 1st 11 relined furnaces also have started and six more are due to resume soon.

Steel ingot production last week gained one-half point to 99 1-2 per cent of capacity. Rates by districts included Birmingham 95, and unchanged.

Woman Struck by Car While Dodging Another

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VIDALIA, Ga., June 29.—Miss Lillian Swan, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Swan, of Higgston, suffered a broken thigh Thursday night when struck by an automobile in Higgston.

Miss Swan was crossing the highway, which is Higgston's main thoroughfare, when she dodged an approaching car and stepped into the path of another traveling the opposite direction. The occupants rushed the young woman to the Vidalia hospital and notified the State Highway Patrol of the accident.

Skilled Labor Price-Control Insufficient on Battle Looms For Congress

Shortage Reported for Ship, Aircraft, Machine Shop Jobs.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(P)—A serious shortage of shipbuilding, aircraft and machine shop workers was reported today by Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

Announcing the results of a survey by the Bureau of Employment Security, McNutt said that of 394 occupations studied there were 78 in which the number of workers registered with state employment offices was insufficient to fill jobs now open.

Defense employers estimated that 978 tool designers were needed up to June 1, as against 61 registered with state employment offices. With 250 die designers required, only 16 were found available. Among airplane woodworkers, the ratio of demand to supply was 40 to 1; for detail assemblers in aircraft, 50 to 1. In shipbuilding, no hull inspectors could be found for new job openings. Approximately 550 lefts-men were needed, but only 15 were located.

Among other developments bearing on defense was completion by a Senate Military Subcommittee of the first phase of an investigation of the supply of strategic war materials. It said the evidence was conclusive that domestic production of chromite, manganese, antimony, mercury and tungsten could be increased materially. There also was an indication, the committee said, that the United States might be made self-sufficient in the production of these materials "without an undue effect on the consumer market."

The committee listed these five, along with nickel and tin as the leading strategic minerals. Elsewhere in Washington there were these other defense developments:

Secretary Ickes was advised by Abe Fortas, acting director of the Interior Department's power division, that steps were being taken to avert a "threatening power shortage" in the west, center of airplane and other defense production.

The Foreign Policy Association, a private research organization, reported that the power and transportation systems might "prove inadequate to the extraordinary demands" of the defense program.

CIO Machinists Vote To Return To Shipyards

Work To Be Resumed Today With AFL as Agent.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—(P)—CIO and AFL machinists will return to work tomorrow in 11 bay area shipyards and drydocks where vital warship and merchant marine construction has been crippled since they struck May 10.

Six hundred CIO machinists in Oakland voted unanimously today to stand by their earlier decision to end their strike. James P. Smith, business agent, said the men would work under conditions specified in a coastwide master contract for the shipbuilding industry pending further negotiations with employers and hearing of a jurisdictional dispute.

Smith declined to elaborate. However, the master agreement makes the AFL Bay Cities Metal Trades Council the bargaining agent for all other workmen in the shipyards. For this reason there had been some fear the CIO union might rescind its decision of last Thursday to go back to work Monday provided it obtained a separate closed shop agreement before then.

The strike delayed work on $500,000,000 in defense contracts, including 29 naval vessels. The machinists struck to enforce their demands for $1.15 an hour, continuation of double time for overtime and for a closed shop at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. The coastwide pact, which Bethlehem then had not signed and which the machinists did not ratify, provided $1.12 an hour and time and a half overtime. Bethlehem subsequently agreed to sign the master contract and AFL machinists last Wednesday agreed to go back to work tomorrow—on condition a separate agreement be negotiated within 60 days.

4 Youths Seized In Car Stripping

CITY police yesterday afternoon recovered $150 worth of stolen automobile equipment after they arrested four youths, caught in the act of stripping an automobile parked on 14th street near Lombard way, officers reported.

According to police, the youths were draining the oil and removing the tires of a car owned by Charles P. Peace, Constitution printer, who lives at 50 Fourteenth street, N. E. The allegedly stolen goods were turned over to police following the arrest.

Booked at headquarters on charges of suspicion and investigation, the boys were listed as Ernest Wilkinson, 17, of Annis-ton, Ala.; Jack Kennedy, 21, of 61 Woodward avenue, S. E.; Willard Jackson, 18, of 480 E. Crew street, S. W.; and Maurice Collins, 16, of 31 Rawson street, S. W.

Price-Control Strictly Business

Administration Report Seeking Legislation To Avoid Inflation.

By JACK BELL.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(P)—A lengthy congressional battle reminiscent of tariff-making days appeared to be in the offing today as reports spread that the administration had decided to seek price-control legislation.

Although bi-partisan support seemed likely to develop for the principle of controlling prices to avoid inflation, disagreement over methods was forecast and some senators predicted that before congress was through with the question it might find itself writing a bill far more involved even than a tariff measure.

As evidence of Republican support, Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he was willing to go along on the enactment of statutory restraints against excessive price boosts in basic commodities.

Tribunal Proposed. Taft, who has been critical of the efforts of Leon Henderson, the price administrator, to fix a ceiling on prices of certain commodities, said he had drafted legislation to establish a price-control board consisting of the secretaries of agriculture, interior and treasury, as well as representatives of the Federal Reserve System and the Office of Production Management.

Taft contended that Henderson was without statutory authority to enforce any of the orders he has issued, adding that if statutory authority were delegated by congress it ought to be to a tribunal and not to an individual.

Some Democrats from farm states also have been highly critical of Henderson's price-fixing activities.

Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, called a meeting tomorrow of senators and house members from farm states to discuss "what limitation, if any, should be placed on the markets of different farm products."

In addition to fixing prices, Henderson has followed the practice of issuing warnings against price increases and practices which he deemed unwarranted.

He charged in a statement today that some "unscrupulous" dealers in scrap metals, particularly aluminum and zinc, were attempting to evade price ceilings.

This has been done, Henderson said, by such practices as adding in unwarranted freight charges and sale of dirty scrap at prices fixed for clean scrap.

A Picnic . . . . . . and Paul Revere!

Surprising, but it's true! This peaceful family scene, this happy outing on the Fourth (which might be anybody's picnic, in America) is the result of the ride of Paul Revere!

Because of that heroic roundup . . . because of the answering courage of the Minute Men, the battle of Bunker Hill, and the ultimate signing of the Declaration of Independence . . . because, on July 4, 1776, Liberty Bell rang out from Old Independence Hall . . . we picnic as we please today.

We may spend our Fourth hilariously, or peacefully . . . dancing at the club, or sleeping in the shade. This is another day out of three hundred and sixty-five, in which we Americans can do as we like . . . enjoying the privileges of life, liberty, and picnicking in the park!

HAVE A WONDERFUL FOURTH! . . . . . RICH'S

A beautiful skin is one of Rosalind Russell's chief assets. To keep a skin in perfect condition during the summer requires plenty of cleansing... and of course, plenty of cleansing cream. As generous a jar as the one mentioned below will help both your budget and your complexion. Miss Russell is now playing in "They Met in Bombay."

Cleansing Cream Comes As Bargain

By WINIFRED WARE.

There's more cleansing cream used in summer than at any other season, and that's as it should be. When we get hotter and dirtier we have to supplement the usual morning and night cleansings with in-between ones. Before we know it we find that the jar of cleansing cream which we thought would last until fall is down to the bottom while it's still June.

It's mighty nice to find a good buy in a grand summer cleansing cream which is available right at this time. A famous cosmetic house has put out the biggest jar of cleansing cream you ever saw for $1.00. You can use it as often as you like and not feel extravagant. You can slather it on your face and throat and it will be a long, long time before you see the bottom of the jar.

There'll be no danger of its giving out while you're on your vacation even if your husband has acquired the habit of dipping into your cream. I know lots who have, though they may not admit it.

The best part is that it's a fine summer cleansing cream at the same time that it's a bargain. It's delightfully light and fluffy. It whisks off dirt and grime without leaving your skin oily.

Why not quit feeling like you have to skimp on that cleansing so important to your beauty? Invest a dollar in this big jar of cream and use it often. I'll be glad to tell you what it is and where you can get it if you call me at Walnut 6565 or write me in care of The Constitution, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

MY DAY: Fish Over-Simplifies Question of War

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

EASTPORT, Maine, Friday.—I have just received a slightly delayed communication from my congressman, the Honorable Hamilton Fish. His letter, addressed to the people of the 26th congressional district in New York state, interests me very much. He suggests in the first paragraph that "an undeclared war is an invention and creation of totalitarian nations, and a negation of democratic processes and our constitutional form of government."

Nowhere in the letter does he seem to suggest that, this being the case, and we being a peace-loving people, we may find ourselves the victims of an undeclared war, whether we like it or not, even if we ourselves adhere scrupulously to the "democratic processes."

He incloses in this courteous note, a postal card which reads:
"The United States should:
Enter the war.....
Stay out of the war....."
All I am asked to do is to check one of these statements, sign my name or not, as I like, and return my ballot within three days of receipt.

I understand from a newspaper item which I read, that my congressman has received an overwhelming number stating that the United States should stay out of war. That seems to me fairly natural. If I thought I had a choice in the matter, I should answer wholeheartedly that I did not wish to enter any war anywhere in the world. But it seems to me that my congressman has oversimplified the question which confronts us at the moment.

We would like to stay out of war. The people of Norway, Holland and all the other countries in Europe, even France and Russia, and Germany itself, would probably have liked to stay out of war. But that wasn't ever put before them as a choice. The war was suddenly upon them. In some cases, their government in the form of a dictator decreed it so. In others, because they woke up one morning and found soldiers of an enemy government marching down their streets.

I can think of a number of questions, Mr. Congressman, which you could have asked your constituents that would have been more enlightening to them and to you. Just as a suggestion, why not ask: "Shall the U. S. allow any enemy nation to obtain possessions which may menace, under modern conditions of warfare, the safety of the U. S.?" or: "Shall we accept restrictions on our trade or the abrogation of our right to travel in neutral waters throughout the world?"

We have always been a proud and independent people, Mr. Congressman. As a woman, I pray for peace not only now, but in the future. But I think we must look a little beyond next week if we expect to insure an independent U. S. A. to our children. There is such a thing, too, as the moral values of a situation, and I do not think we are a nation that has given up considerations for right and wrong as we see it.

Rooney, Gable and Raft are among healthy few of Hollywood Film Stars

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—How many stars, I wonder, could win a "better-health" competition? Mickey Rooney could—"If I can't be tall, I'll be strong," he says. Clark Gable could. Clark spends most of his spare time in the open air. And there are some others who have a grade A rating from their doctors. But, by and large, the film acting fraternity is a bit on the weak and nervous side.

Brian Aherne suffers from hay fever, also has trouble with his sinus. That's why he bought a house in the desert. The dry air brings him relief. Ginger Rogers was pretty strong until a few years ago when she won a tennis tournament and overtaxed her strength. She now conserves her energy by abstinence from the society of too many people. Ginger is, or was, a little anaemic.

George Raft is one of the healthiest males in Hollywood. He neither smokes nor drinks strong beverages—except in his films. Laraine Day is nervous and catches cold too easily. Charles Laughton is not over strong—he is another easy victim of the cold germ. Gene Tierney is allergic to unexpected things, like chocolate and tobacco, and recently held up shooting on "Belle Starr" until her mysterious illness was tracked to its source. Swimmer Johnny Weissmuller suffers with sinus trouble.

Betty Gable would be in the healthy class but for the recent trouble with her teeth, which made her a sick and unhappy girl. Barbara Stanwyck suffers from insomnia. This is hardly surprising in view of her 24 cups of strong coffee a day. And, by the way, if you, too, find it hard to sleep quickly, here's what Miss Stanwyck's doctor recommended, "Imagine you are swinging in a hammock." Barbara says this has helped her.

Judy Garland is on the fragile side, and was recently hospitalized with tonsillitis. All the weight she has shed does not help to regain her health either. Every time you see Hedy LaMarr, she tells you of something that is wrong with her health. It's either an impacted tooth, a cold, indigestion, general inertia—or all four. I sometimes think that if Hedy would just say "I feel fine" she would get well and strong.

Claudette Colbert insists that she has recovered from her erstwhile sinus misery. But she still looks on the delicate side—particularly towards the end of a picture. Jean Arthur is much healthier than she used to be, but is still far from winning a sound constitution prize. Jean's nerves are in the high-strung category. Phyllis Brooks, once the fiancée of Cary Grant, is slightly anaemic and has to swallow six liver pills a day. Newcomer to Hollywood, Carol Bruce, is carried forward via highly strung nerves. At the end of her picture, "This Woman Is Mine," Carol is planning to vegetate and do absolutely nothing except lie in the sun. It's a wise decision.

Inadequate Luncheon Menu Causes Afternoon Let-Down

By Dr. William Brady.

Woman aged 38, in good health, frequently gets what she describes as "that let down feeling" in the afternoon. She has read that sugar or a chocolate bar or something of that sort will help, but, alas, that is the heaviest time of the day in her work and to be caught eating anything then would mean the loss of her job. So what...

Why, the doubly qualified old buzzard—would he fire a girl just because she sneaks a little candy or a sugar wafer or a few lemon drops or a banana in the middle of the afternoon? If he wants to get the best work from his employees, it might be wise for him to have a regular recess for 10 minutes or so both mid-forenoon and mid-afternoon and serve 'em tea and cakes or crackers and milk or some fruit juice.

One reason why so many young women suffer a let-down along in the afternoon is because they do not take an adequate lunch. Generally they are not so keen about saving the expense for proper food at lunch as they are about keeping slender. In this silly attempt to keep thin by taking insufficient food or by eating only things the dumbbells imagine are not fattening, they succeed in keeping scrawny and in poor health. A good substantial lunch at noon, supplemented by a few miles of oxygen on the hoof every day or every evening after work, will give a woman a five letter word for attractiveness, where dimwit dieting gives only the first two letters of the word—CO.

In some instances the mid-afternoon let-down amounts to severe depression not only physical but mental too, and the individual may behave abnormally or erratically in consequence. Such a serious spell occurs when the sugar in the blood becomes nearly used up—the blood sugar is being constantly oxidized or burned to supply the energy required to maintain all body functions—or, as doctors say, there is a state of hypoglycemia, less sugar in the blood than there should be.

The emergency remedy for such a spell of faintness, weakness, queer dullness of mind or confusion and unnatural irritability or even irrational behavior, is sugar in any form—candy, fruit juice, milk, sweetened beverage, a piece of chocolate bar, some fruit, ice cream, or even some starchy food—bread, sandwich cake, crackers. The no lunch habit may be all right for sedentary folk who are overnourished and underworked. It is all wrong for young people who work or play hard. Any young woman who skimps on lunch in order to avoid accumulating slacker flesh will learn something to her advantage to studying "The Seven Keys to Vite", which is No. 16 in Ol' Doc Brady's Little Lessons in the Ways of Health. ## POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Daughter: "Mrs. Jones does not make Susie rest in the afternoon."
Mother: "Mothers don't always agree as to what is best for children but you and I know an early afternoon rest is good for you."

Mothers have daily opportunities for teaching tolerance or criticism.

Mother: "Those Jones children are out in the heat all day long. Mrs. Jones is the poorest mother I know of. If she'd make her children take an afternoon rest it wouldn't be so hard for me."

Summer calls for lazy exercises

By Ida Jean Kain.

When heat and humidity are added to a natural incline, it may be good tactics to shift to a few lazy weather exercises that call for the minimum of energy and yet get results. So start stretching.

It's a very good way to start your day. You can't sleep late these torrid mornings anyway, and you'll open your eyes at how much better stretching makes you feel.

Before you stir out of bed, toss the pillows aside and lie flat on your back with your arms straight up overhead on the mattress, legs straight down. Grasp the headboard with both hands and push down with both feet until you are pulled out long and slim. Relax and repeat several times.

Between stretches, let yourself go limp that you seem to sink right down into the mattress and rest there for at least 30 seconds. Then follow with this: Still on back, hands down at sides and legs together and straight down, flex alternate knees to the chest. That's a very easy exercise but it's excellent for those lower abdominal muscles and, to a degree, for the large fleshy muscles on the backs of the hips. As one knee is flexed toward chest, keep the other straight and entire leg on the bed. When you've gone your limit, rest.

Here's another good one: Lie on your back, arms down at sides and legs straight down. Raise the right arm up overhead until it rests on mattress as you swing the right leg across the 1-ft. and touch toes to bed beyond. Stretch, pull. Return to starting position and repeat with other leg and arm. Take it easy—the point is to stretch, not to work up perspiration.

Now, over your left side with left arm straight up under the head, right arm down at the side, both legs straight down with right leg on top. Flex the right knee, left leg as high as possible. As you do, move right arm from the shoulder, up and back on the bed. Make a final effort to push the arm back as you touch the right knee to bed in front of left leg. Return to position and repeat five times, then perform on the other side. That exercise stretches the waistline and tones the muscles of the upper arm, chest and shoulders.

After that a warm shower tapering to cool water—cold, if you're up to it—and you'll feel so good you won't mind the weather.

Your dietitian,
IDA JEAN KAIN.

Other good hot weather exercises are to be found in the leaflet, "Stretching the Fat From Waistline, Ribs, Wishbone." Send stamped return envelope for this leaflet to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and vary your routine.

THESE WOMEN :- By d'Alessio

"Pack up, Mother—we're going home to Dad!"

Betty Brewer, Paramount star, models this quaint frock. Note the foreign accent in the peasant blouse and full skirt with a gingham border.

Basque Frock Flatters the Very Young Miss

Betty Brewer, Paramount's young star, likes this frock for its foreign accent, noticeable in the quaint little top, the peasant blouse with its ruffled neck, the ruffle edged puffed sleeves and the full skirt bordered with a band of the gingham check which we see in the top.

Pattern No. 1421 presents this frock for girls of 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 year sizes. Size 10 takes 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric for bias-cut skirt and sleeves and 1 5/8 yards for the basque bodice and banding on skirt. 3-8 yard ruffling for neckline with 3 yards ric-rack for trim.

Pattern No. 1421 can be purchased for 15 cents. Please remit in coins or stamps (coins preferred), giving your name, address, pattern number and size. Mail your orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

To recapture lost beau, act amused

Dear Dixie:

I am still in love with a young man regardless of the following circumstances. We went together three years and a half and at the present time I am very anxious for advice as to how to get him back. This is the situation:

A certain girl, whom I thought was my friend, has been after him for a long time, and as fate would have it, she and her mother have moved near to where he lives. By endless talk against me, they encouraged him to go with my other friends and drop me. They worked their plan very well and had him at their home often. The girl goes with him all the time. I know he loved me as I loved him. I went away for a short time, and when I came back he was going out only with this girl, but with a lot of other girls in the town. That is the situation. Is there anything you can do to help me get him back? WORRIED GIRL.

I think this man has shown very little character in letting these other people influence him. He seems very easy to sway by opinion, so you might take that as a cue to try to win him back. This girl and her mother have shown just what type people they are, and it will be a case of fighting fire with fire if you start after your man. You will have to be very subtle about the whole thing and not let them think you are in any way upset. If they mention him to you, you can, if you are clever, laugh it off. Tell them that this boy has survived similar cases before and you are sure he will survive this time. Just be amused about the whole thing, and let them know that you know the tactics they used to get him. Go out and have fun with some others and, if you see this man, be casual and indifferent to him, but act amused at his current "attack." Let him see that you know what is going on, and you are not dying over him. If he is worth anything he will come back.

REASONABLE DIFFERENCE IN AGE IS UNIMPORTANT

Dear Dixie:

I have been a widow for many years and have one child. A man whom I know is getting a divorce and wants to go with me. He has asked me to wait for him until he is free. I have known this man and his wife well, and have been in their company many times. Every time they have been out in public, I have noticed how she has criticized him. He took it, of course, but he never did enjoy himself. He is much older than I am, all of 17 years. He seems to think a lot of me and also my child. Both of us are devoted to him. He would make the right kind of woman a fine husband. Do you think the difference in age is too great?

ANXIOUS.

I do not think that his age would make any difference. Women age quicker than men and I think the match would be ideal. As for going with him now while he is getting his divorce, I think I would use a little discretion. This is especially important because of the friendship existing between you and the wife. Of course, if you do not mind gossip, it is all right to go with him, but it seems to me that if you plan to marry him, it would be a lot better to wait until he has his final decree.

Slim Dress Has Simple, Cool Neckline

By Lillian Mae.

SLIM DRESS HAS EXTENDED YOKE.

Pattern 4799.

Not just a "good little dress", but something extra-special is Pattern 4799. For every knowing detail of this Lillian Mae frock slim, softens, enhances. There's a newy look to the extended shoulder yoking that's surrounded by darts to hold the marvelous bodice softness in place, aided by gathers above the waist and a group of V-darts at the center-front seam. The neckline is cool, simple and cut low in the new fashion. Have your sleeves short, long, or make them in the three-quarter style that gives such concealing, graceful flattery to your arms. A belt of ribbon or with just a front inset and tie of self fabric adds gay color to this frock!

Pattern 4799 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1/4 yards 39-inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrast. ## Atlanta Belles in Panama To Be Honored at Bienvenida

By SALLY FORTH.

WALDEN and BETTY McCONNELL WOODWARD will employ an old Panama custom when they honor their visitors, Lillian Klein, Emmakate Vretman and Peggy Dutton, at a Bienvenida at their home in Cristobel, Panama, on Wednesday.

You doubtless wonder just what a Bienvenida is—and Sally has learned the following about it: When a merchant in Panama receives a new shipment of especially fashionable material, he sends announcements to his customers inviting them to visit his store. Such a procedure is known as a Bienvenida.

Patterning their invitations after the familiar merchants' cards, Betty, who is the daughter of Mrs. Sam McConnell, of Atlanta, and her husband, Walden, mailed the following to their friends:

The Woodwards take pleasure in announcing the arrival of a new shipment of "Georgia Peaches," Misses Lillian Klein, Emmakate Vretman and Peggy Dutton, in inviting you to their "uncrating" at the Fort Davis Officers' Club on Wednesday, July 2.

A profusion of lush pink peaches was sketched in the corners of the invitations. The Atlanta gadabouts are having a wonderful time, with parties being given in their honor both night and day. On Tuesday evening the Woodwards will honor the trio at dinner after which the group and the dates of the visitors will "do the town."

On Wednesday Huff Gordy and Phil Dourland will escort Lillian, Emmakate and Peggy to the city of Panama and to Balboa, where they will enjoy luncheon, returning to Cristobel in time to attend the tea dance there.

Emmakate and Peggy are scheduled to sail for home on Wednesday, you know, and Sally predicts that their leaving will be indeed a sad one. Lillian, however, is more fortunate, for she will remain in Cristobel as Betty and Walden's guest for several weeks.

A RECEPTION honoring Miss Martha Norris McLeod on the occasion of her presentation of her book, "Brother Warriors," to President Franklin D. Delano Roosevelt's aide, will be given by Mrs. Len Epperly MacDonal this evening at 8 o'clock. The affair takes place at Confederate Memorial hall, on Vermont avenue, in Washington, D. C.

"Brother Warriors" is a compilation of reminiscences and anecdotes of the last survivors of the rank and file of "the Blue and the Gray." The stories are told in the actual phraseology of the men involved, and are historical in some instances and pathetic and humorous in others.

Miss McLeod was born in Crawfordville, Fla. She is the daughter of a noted Confederate scout, Judge R. Don McLeod, and comes by her writing ability as a heritage. Her father was a publisher of the "Tallahassee Democrat."

She is a member of the League of American Pen Women and a sponsor on the sponsor staff of General John Franklin Howell, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

Miss McLeod spent six months in Atlanta last year at the Cox-Carlton hotel, and was sponsor for the Twentieth Century Bible Class of the First Baptist church when Hugh Smith was president.

WHEN Anita Chapman becomes the bride of Samuel J. Davis this evening at the First Christian church, there will be an unusually sentimental feature of her wedding attire. The coronet of pearls to which her veil will be attached, was made by her mother, Mrs. J. H. Chapman Jr., and is fashioned of the pearls used on her wedding dress when she became a bride. Mrs. Chapman was, before her marriage, Miss Lollabelle Johnston, of Augusta, and since her wedding she has treasured the pearls to be used on some auspicious occasion, and this afternoon's ceremony was the date chosen.

Miss Wischmeyer, popular bride-elect of July 16, was honored recently by Mrs. Gordon A. Smith on West Wesley road. Mrs. Smith was assisted by her sister, Miss Helen Castleberry, and Miss Martha Simpson.

A feature was the scrapbook of magazine pictures made by the guests. The 4-year-old daughter of the hostess, Mary Ann Smith, dressed as a bride, presented the packages of linens to the honor guest.

Invited were Mesdames Gordon Smith, J. Castleberry, Annie Mae Norton, R. L. Powlledge, Carl Duke, Bessie B. Simpson, Dean Kelley, Evelyn C. Sharpe, Ben A. Hutchison, J. B. Murray, Arthur Styrton, Carl Jones, Fred W. Wischmeyer, Irby Green, J. C. Richardson, and R. D. Green, Nina Moore, Betty Styrton, Kate Green, Helen Castleberry, Evelyn Campbell, Ellen Murray and little Mary Ann Smith.

For Miss Woodward. Mrs. Allen M. Key entertained at a bridal shower recently at her home on Rosedale road, complimenting Miss Mildred Woodward, whose marriage to R. Ray Hollingsworth will be an event of July 3 at the Central Presbyterian church. Mrs. Key was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. T. Kilpatrick. Prizes were won by Mrs. Lois Roy and Mrs. R. L. Hollingsworth.

Guests included Misses Lucy Walters, Mildred Woodward, Bernice McGabre, Nettie Briscoe, Lillian Kaver, Sarah Colbert, Mary Hollingsworth, Mabel Gillen, Mesdames Charles Hollingsworth, R. L. Hollingsworth, G. O. Branning, J. T. Kilpatrick, Theresa Mulligan, Don Peck, Jack Read, Lois Roy, Margaret Rickley,

Mr. and Mrs. John Cherry were photographed after their marriage which was a brilliant alfresco event taking place on Saturday evening in the garden of the bride's home on Rumson road. Mrs. Cherry is the former Miss Rebecca Stewart Wight, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wight. Upon their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cherry will reside in the Peachtree Hills Apartments, where they will be prominent acquisitions to the young married contingent.

Gen. John Floyd Chapter To Give Luncheon Today

A luncheon will be given at 1 o'clock today at the Capital City Club when members of the General John Floyd chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, will pay tribute to the memory of their founder, Miss Virginia Arnold, who organized the United States Daughters of 1812 in the state of Georgia.

Georgia members are urged to attend and reservations may be made through Mrs. Robert H. Jones Jr., chapter president, at Hemlock 5590.

Out-of-town guests include Mesdames N. A. Jelks, state president; John Plaxico, John Edward Lane, T. J. Sappington, Lucy Blount, Henry Mashburn, Kirby Smith Anderson, John Samuel Adams, Honorary State President John M. Simmons, A. B. Conger, Frank Dennis.

Members from the following local patriotic organizations are expected to attend: Mesdames Eli A. Thomas, of the General James Edward Oglethorpe chapter, D. A. C.; William P. Dunn, of the Hershman chapter, D. A. C.; Stephens Mitchell, of the Children of the American Colonists; S. M. Page Rees, of the Daughters of Colonial Wars; Miss Annie Laurie Hill, of the Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims; and the heads of the Colonial Dames of America, Georgia chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots, Daughters of the Mayflower Descendants, Colonial Dames of the 17th Century, Georgia branch, Huguenot Society of Manakin in the Colony of Virginia, and the Atlanta chapters, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

General John Floyd chapter is celebrating its 40th birthday this year. It was the only 1812 chapter in the state of Georgia until recent years. Place cards in the society colors will mark the place of guests. Serving as hospitality chairmen are Mesdames Charles F. Rice, John M. Slaton and Lucius McConnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Fernandez arrive here today from Sea Island Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. William Healey Jr. leave today for Sea Island Beach, where they will join their daughter, Callie, and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Healey, their brother and sister, at the home of their mother, Mrs. William Healey Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Scott and family, of Baltimore, Md., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Cowan on Fourteenth street.

Miss Gertrude Yampolsky, a recent graduate of Goucher College, in Baltimore, Md., has returned from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Hendree and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wightman Bowden will leave tomorrow for Daytona Beach, where they have taken a cottage for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Gravitt will return today from their wedding trip to Florida. Mrs. Gravitt is the former Miss Margaret Hudleston, her marriage to Mr. Gravitt having been solemnized on June 21.

Miss Marguerite Jones, of Brookhaven, has returned from Jackson, Miss., where she visited friends.

Mrs. H. W. Shirley has returned from New Orleans, La., and was accompanied home by her aunt, Mrs. T. W. Hemingway, whom she visited. Mrs. Hemingway is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alto H. Patterson, while in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Furr leave this week to spend several weeks in western North Carolina.

Mrs. T. C. Castleberry has returned to Covington. She recently underwent an operation at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kimbrell, of Covington, arrive in Atlanta this week to establish their future residence here. Mrs. Kimbrell is the former Miss Nell Turner, of Covington.

Winston Cooper, who is stationed at Portsmouth, Va., with the United States Navy, has returned to that city after a visit to his mother, Mrs. W. M. Cooper. Mr. Cooper was formerly assistant manager of Loew's Grand theater here.

Miss Frances Johnson, of Washington, Ga., and Betty Mitchell, of

Church Reception For New Minister

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church will entertain at an informal reception honoring the new minister, William C. Sistar, and Mrs. Sistar, on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asbury C. Wellborn, 328 Georgia avenue, S. E. Friends of the church and congregation are invited to call between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock.

The auxiliary officers and the church officers and their wives will assist in entertaining. No cards have been issued but all who wish to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Sistar are invited to meet them.

For Miss Brown And Mr. Harper

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Harper entertained last evening at a buffet supper at Jonadelle, their country home in DeKalb county, as a complimentary gesture to Miss Emily Brown and Doyal Harper, whose marriage takes place this afternoon at Morning-side Presbyterian church at 5:30 o'clock.

The table was beautified with summer flowers and fruits, and the individual tables on the terrace were decorated with platters of peaches and grapes. Pink and blue predominated in the floral decorations.

Punch was served by Mrs. W. M. Woods Jr., Mrs. Jack Bourke and Miss Betty Brown. Coffee was served from a pewter service by Mrs. Evan Butler and Mrs. Ralph Allison.

Miss Brown was given a miscellaneous shower Saturday by Miss Helen Blackwood on Sinclair avenue, N. E. Twenty-five guests were invited and Misses Martha Blackwood and Sara Brown assisted the hostess in entertaining.

Visitors To Attend Wedding Today

A number of out-of-town guests are in the city to attend the marriage of Miss Anita Chapman and Samuel Davis, which takes place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Christian church.

In the group are Miss Annette Sealey, of Albany; Mrs. H. H. Bell Sr., Mrs. J. L. Pope, of Augusta; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Legg, of Calhoun; Mr. and Mrs. Emory Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Johnson, Miss Ella Biggers, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Harper and Mrs. Clifford Bagwell, all of Rome, Ga.

Concluding the affairs honoring the couple was the rehearsal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Prentiss on Saturday, who entertained at their home on 28th street. Pastel flowers were used as the decorations and the hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. H. Chapman Jr., mother of the bride-elect, and by Mrs. Harry Harrington. The guests were members of the wedding party.

On Saturday at the luncheon hour Miss Jane Chapman was hostess at Davison's for her bride-elect sister, the guests being members of the wedding party.

For Miss Coffey And Her Fiance. Climaxing a round of pre-nuptial parties, Miss Jane Coffey and her fiance, John Clarence Buckley, of Newton, Miss., was the buffet supper given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. George O. ## Miss Carey Singleton Elected Head of Pilot Officers' Club

Miss Carey Singleton, 1935 president of the Atlanta Pilot Club, was elected president of the Past Officers' Club of Pilot International at the annual convention held recently in Houston, Texas. Miss Singleton succeeds Mrs. Hester Bingham, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. Miss Amy Mitchell, past president of the Atlanta club, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Atlanta members of the club are Mesdames Belle Bond, Fay Barrett, Annie Lou Brigman and Carolyn Sevier. Mrs. May Pynchon, of Jacksonville, Fla., is club president.

Mrs. Ethel Hall, of Greensboro, N. C., is the new president of Pilot International, succeeding Mrs. D. H. McKelvey, of Memphis, Tenn. Other officers are Mrs. Marguerite Dimerling, Beaumont, Texas; first vice president, Miss Katherine O'Donnell, Phoenix, Ariz.; second vice president, Mrs. Edna McNeill, third vice president, Miss Cecil Mason, Nashville, Tenn., secretary, Miss Harriet McSwain, Selma, Ala., treasurer, and Miss Ruth Mettger, Jacksonville, Fla., director.

Mrs. Alvie Hill, of Athens, governor of District No. 1, was appointed chairman of the club's 20th anniversary committee, and extended invitation to Pilots to attend the anniversary meeting at Macon on October 18-19.

The St. Petersburg, Fla., club won the first prize in the annual contest for civic achievement; Memphis, Tenn., publications; Beaumont, Texas, scrapbook; and Orlando, Fla., both the Nell Gardner and Orphan Annie cups. Silver City, N. C., won a special trophy given by Mrs. Nell Gardner for the club in District 9 having the highest percentage attendance record during the year. The convention voted to give these cups permanent possession of these cups.

A contribution of $100 was made by an anonymous donor to establish a "True Course Ever" fund for aiding any Pilot requiring financial assistance. The 1942 convention will be held at Columbus, Ohio.

A delegation of Atlanta Pilots met the train on which the newly elected international president, Mrs. Ethel Hall, was returning to Greensboro, N. C. Mrs. Readie P. Ashurst, Atlanta president, presented Mrs. Hall with a silver compe from the Atlanta club and an orchid from District No. 1.

The next vice president will be a meeting of the Atlanta club will be held on July 1 at "Dogwood Farm," the home of Mr. and Mrs. King Murphy, near Panthersville. A picnic supper will be served and reports given of social activities of the convention.

Mrs. Paul Seydel To Be Honored

Mrs. Paul Seydel, president of Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, will be honor guest at the tea given on Tuesday at 4 o'clock by Mrs. Norman Sharp at her Riverside road residence. Mrs. Sharp is parliamentarian of the organization.

Officers of the federation invited to meet the honor guest are Mesdames W. L. Ballenger, Clyde L. King, Louis E. Moss, J. B. Chis-olm, John Turner, Byron Matthews and Homer Carmichael.

Mrs. Seydel was elected president of the federation at the May meeting and was inducted into office. As chairman of international relations, she sponsored a contest for the best article written on this subject.

Film Group Gives Vacation Program

The Atlanta Better Films Committee, Mrs. O. D. Bartlett, president, met on Thursday at the Ansley hotel. The executive board meeting and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson's class of instruction preceded the luncheon.

The program carried out the vacation idea, and the following members gave reports of real and "imaginary" visits to the following studios: Twentieth Century-Fox, by Mrs. Frank McCormack; RKO, by Mrs. Frank Adherolt; MGM, by Mrs. Edwina Buford; Warner, by Mrs. S. D. Katz; Paramount, by Mrs. R. G. Helsten; Selznick and United Artists, by Mrs. W. B. Hampton; Universal, Mrs. Jefferson Place, and Columbia, Mrs. Fred DeBary.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson talked on "Defense" pictures. Mrs. W. F. Jernigan, of Long Island, stressed the value of educating the public to wanting high type pictures.

New members welcomed were Mesdames L. W. Fisher, James D. Rhodes, L. E. Harris, John F. Moon and Charles Clippinger.

An interesting feature was the presentation of Mrs. D. Tindal's small grandson, Joseph Loren Clark, who, with his mother, Mrs. Loren Clark, of Russellville, Arkansas, is visiting Mrs. Tindal. Mrs. Bartlett presented the baby a silver cup, on behalf of the Atlanta Better Films group.

Miss Wyche Weds Charles E. Taylor

LUTHERSVILLE, Ga., June 29. The wedding of Miss Gertrude Virginia Wyche, of Luther'sville, and Charles Earle Taylor, of Thomasville, was solemnized on the afternoon of June 22 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wyche, here. Rev. R. H. Timberlake officiated.

Mrs. E. Hines, of Leslie, Ga., sister of the bride, presented a musical program. Miss Valeria Barker, of Atlanta, formerly of Thomasville, Ga., was soloist. Miss Anna E. King, niece of the bride, lighted the tapers.

The bride chose for the ceremony a dress of white shantung fashioned with matching lace and worn with an off-the-face hat of white. Her shoulder spray was of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Her traveling outfit was an ice-cream-colored marquisette, topped with whipped cream white jacket.

Mrs. Taylor, graduate of the University of Georgia, has taught in the Gordon county and Upson county school systems. Mr. Taylor is also a graduate of the University of Georgia and has taught in the Gordon county and Clarke county school systems. He is superintendent of the Bishop High school, Bishop, Ga., where he and his wife will teach next fall.

Daughters of '98 Plan Activities

Fort No. 28, Daughters of '98, United Spanish War Veterans, met recently in the home of Mrs. Daisy Irwin. Miss Ida Shannon presided and brought plans for summer activities. Cigarettes for Hospital No. 48 will be supplied and a check will be sent to the American Red Cross. A picnic in July has been planned. The group will be observed with a patriotic program.

The following applications for membership were voted favorably: Miss Mary Catherine Ennis, Miss Grace Black, Miss Imogene Black and Miss Thelma Johnson. Miss Mary Emma Pourron will have charge of the hospital activities.

Miss Annabelle Greet is chairman of programs. A study of the History of the Spanish-American War, and the causes leading up to it, will be made by the Daughters, and a prize will be given the member writing the best essay on this subject at the end of the year.

THE ARMY FATTENS THEM UP

Boys in Camps Gain on Average Of 10 Pounds in the First 3 Weeks

DURHAM, N. H., June 29.—(ANA)—Boys in army camps are gaining an average of 10 pounds for the first three weeks of training.

Such is the report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting here June 28 by Mrs. Mary I. Barber, food consultant to the Quartermaster Corps of the Army.

Mrs. Barber made some astounding revelations—probably astounding, that is, to draftees themselves unless something miraculous has happened in 25 years. "K. P." she said, "is no longer a disciplinary measure and even if it were it would not be so bad with the new potato peelers, toasters and slicers that have been introduced into army kitchens."

Only peeling onions, she said, remains a job for which no machine can be found. She neglected to discuss pot and pan scrubbing.

The boys have enough to eat, she said, and diets are being adjusted so far as possible to the tastes of selectees from different parts of the country. Cookies and homemade candy, she insisted, were the only things fond mothers should send them just to give a home flavor to army life. At that, she warned, it is apt to go hard with the soldier if the corporal finds crumbs under the bunk.

Diet Is Same.

The diet remains essentially that of 1918, Mrs. Barber said, except for more variety, and it has improved continuously since the first one was prescribed by the continental congress in 1776. Much has been added and only the gill of a day of whisky or rum has been eliminated.

She gave the history of American army diets as follows:

American Revolution:

One pound beef or salt fish, or three-fourths of a pound of pork per day.

One pound bread or flour per day.

Three pints peas or beans a week.

One pint milk a day.

Half-pint of rice or one pint corn meal a week.

One quart of spruce beer or cider a day or nine gallons of molasses.

Three pounds of candles per 100 men per week.

Eight pounds of hard soap per 100 men per week.

Milk Unmentioned.

Milk is not mentioned again in the diet of the American soldier for 100 years. In 1799 liquor was discontinued, but the commander of any detachment was authorized to issue, if he saw fit, a half gill of rum or whisky per man per day.

War of 1812:

Pound and a quarter of beef or three-fourths of a pound of pork a day.

Eighteen ounces of bread or flour a day.

One gill of rum, whisky or brandy a day.

Per 100 rations per day: Two quarts of salt, four quarts of vinegar, four pounds of soap, pound and a half of candles.

For service in the south molasses was prescribed in place of alcohol.

Civil War:

Per day: 20 ounces beef; 18 ounces flour; 45 ounces yeast; 2.56 ounces of salt; 1.6 ounces of coffee; 2.4 ounces of sugar; .32 of a gill of vinegar; .64 ounces of salt; .04 ounces of pepper; .64 ounces of soap; 24 ounces of candles.

Spanish War:

The only change was the addition of 16 ounces of potatoes.

World War:

Per day: Same as Spanish War with these changes, per day: Potatoes, 20 ounces; prunes, 1.28 ounces; syrup, .32 of an ounce; coffee, 1.12 ounces; evaporated milk, half ounce; butter, half ounce.

For overseas duty there was prescribed in addition a half pound of candy every 10 days and four cigarettes a day. What became of the candy is a mystery. The World War food bill was $727,092,430. The soldiers consumed $737,500,000 pounds of food, issued as rations.

Dirt Burns Diggers.

As workmen dug a trench in Buenos Aires, Argentina, flames sprang up and the men were choked as if by sulphur fumes. A boy cut a piece of the dirt in his pocket and his leg was burned. A government geologist declared the dirt was impregnated with white phosphorus which ignited in contact with the air and that possibly a paint or wax factory using the chemical had been located there at one time.

The Army IN GEORGIA

"For the last time, the word is ADJUTANT—not agitate!"

MANCHESTER, Tenn., June 29.—Over a dozen different highways, 7,000 soldiers, making up units from the Second Army, are making their way toward home stations today after four weeks of intensive defense maneuvers in middle Tennessee hills.

Four divisions and attached troops were involved in the first test of America's new defense forces under the command of Lieutenant General Ben Lear.

Marching by train and by truck, the Fifth (Triangular) Division is moving north to its home at Fort Custer, Mich., expecting to arrive by July 3. En route to its maneuver area, the last week in May, the Fifth moved by shuttling.

Trucks moved forward 50 or 60 miles while troops unable to ride marched. Then the trucks returned for the marching soldiers, lugged them ahead, while those riding the previous day marched. This time everybody rides.

The Thirtieth Division is moving in two columns in a shuttle march to its home station at Fort Jackson, S. C. The columns will converge at night for a single bivouac for each of the three nights of the march home.

The 27th Division will move entirely by truck to its home station, Fort McClellan, Ala. Taking four days for the job, drivers will see that no units of the division will arrive at Fort McClellan July 2. The Second Armored Division will complete its march to Fort Benning, Ga., July 1, travelling in its 3,000 vehicles.

PERSONNEL ARRIVING FOR ALBANY SCHOOL.

ALBANY, Ga., June 29.—Although work on the Air Corps Advanced Flying School No. 6 is not nearly completed, military personnel is beginning to move in. More than 500 officers and men arrived last week from Maxwell field at Montgomery to bring the military personnel to nearly 700 at the airfield.

It is expected the school will have a personnel of more than 4,000 officers, enlisted men, cadets and civilian employees when completed. Cadets are expected to begin arriving July 19, Lieutenant Colonel John B. Patrick, commanding officer, said.

There will be approximately 500

Your Horoscope for Today

By Jimmy Hatlo

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES) — The morning hours until 11:34 a. m. are the best hours of the day. An excellent period for legal affairs, educational matters and general business. Between 11:34 a. m. and 8:08 p. m. verbal agreements are not favored, and if it is impossible to avoid contracts, be sure both sides understand each other thoroughly.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS) — This should be a very good day, for the entire period favors new and important undertakings, dealings with people who are in positions of trust and for some really constructive work. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 4 p. m.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI) — The entire day favors practicing all lines of endeavor. Be active and energetic in promoting all matters. The afternoon hours are more favorable than previous to 2:27 p. m.

June 21st and July 20th (CANCER) — Whatever you are wanting to accomplish, try and start before 10:33 a. m. and after 4:05 p. m., for you should be able to advance your position at this time.

July 21st and August 22nd (LEO) — The best aspects of the day appear to operate previous to 3:30 p. m. This period favors general business activities, financial, literary and educational matters. The remainder of the day favors following established methods and sticking to routine pursuits.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO) — During the morning hours and until 6:07 p. m. financial putting plans into action, general business endeavors, conferences and diplomatic dealings. The remainder of the day and evening is likely to be filled with changeable moods and you may encounter those who are not decided in their opinions. This is not an especially auspicious time to make moves, but to use discretion and moderation.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA) — More can be accomplished in the hours previous to 9:51 a. m. if you will stick to routine, and do not allow yourself to be drawn into changes of a radical nature. Between 9:51 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. you should be able to get down to business.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO) — Opportunities for closer companionship with others will be felt in many ways throughout the day. The entire day and evening favors financial matters, dealings with professional people.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS) — Previous to 2:15 p. m. favors contacting influential people. Between 2:15 p. m. and 5:26 p. m. favors attending to old matters. The remainder of the day does not especially favor old plans. Stick to routine.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN) — This is a most auspicious day to improve conditions around you and to undertake work of a constructive nature. Changes and developments meet with co-operation from others and aggressiveness on your part will be rewarded. The day favors general business activities, social and domestic matters.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS) — During the entire day and until 6:07 p. m. financial efforts and actual finances may be wasted by giving in to a feeling of lavish spending. After 6:07 p. m. favors anything of an aggressive nature and for social contacts.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES) — Previous to 11:30 hours consultations, written matter, travel or for large activities. The day does not appear to favor making changes or undertaking new beginnings.

'Co-operation' Between States In U. S. Defense Work Urged

Governor Saltonstall Welcomes Governors to Boston for 33d Annual Conference as Riveters Pound Out Symphony in Navy Yard.

BOSTON, June 29.—(P)—Near Boston's Navy Yard, where riveters pound out a night-and-day symphony of the nation's building war power, Governor Saltonstall, Republican, of Massachusetts called today for "co-operation rather than competition" between the states in the country's defense work.

Welcoming the chief executives of the United States here for their 33d annual Governors' Conference, he emphasized that their business sessions, opening tomorrow, would center on new defense problems confronting the states and methods of solving them by unified action.

Saltonstall spoke at Maritime Day exercises in busy Boston harbor as a big fleet, bright in flags, maneuvered past the reviewing stand—sleek fighting ships of the expanding Navy, scrubbed and sturdy merchant vessels, and a flotilla of power and sailing pleasure craft.

Asserting the sea "still remains a major battlefield in checking the forces of aggression," Saltonstall said that each port and each stretch of seacoast throughout the nation had its "special advantages" in building and maintaining the nation's sea power.

"Each state can and should help the other," the Massachusetts Governor said. "The need is for co-operation, rather than competition. Our goal can be reached only by joint effort to increase our commerce and improve all our seacoast facilities."

The Governors tomorrow will inspect battleships in construction at the Navy Yard in Boston and at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company in neighboring Quincy, and get a look at harbor fortifications, after visiting the state legislature and the home of Paul Revere.

Extra Driving Caution Urged During Fourth

Traffic Fatalities for Five Months Show Sharp Rise.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(P)—A sharp rise in traffic fatalities prompted a warning to American motorists today to exert extra caution during the mass motor migration of the long Independence Day weekend.

The National Safety Council reported that in the first five months of this year motor vehicle accidents cost 13,760 lives — 17 per cent, or almost 2,000, more than the 11,790 lost in a similar 1940 period.

In May alone, the total was 3,000, or 20 per cent greater than the 2,500 of May last year. The council stated that, in view of this trend, it regarded its estimate that 475 persons would be killed in traffic accidents during the July Fourth celebration as conservative.

Citing the recent large increase in motor mileage, the council added:

"The upsurge in travel will reach a peak over the three-day Fourth of July holiday, with 30,000,000 cars traveling four billion miles. The only chance to prevent a record-breaking toll is for every driver and every pedestrian to use unusual restraint and caution."

The organization attributed the gain in 1941 fatalities chiefly to increases in rural areas and small towns and remarked a decline in larger cities.

264 CCC Camps Are To Be Closed

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(P) Announcement that 264 CCC camps will be closed July 1 because of reduced appropriations was made today by James J. McEntee, director of civilian conservation.

This will cut the number of camps from 1,500 to 1,236. The CCC appropriation for the fiscal year ending tomorrow was $280,000,000, and is $246,960,000 for 1941-42.

CCC expects to start the new fiscal year with 232,500 men, compared with an average in the closing 12 months of 270,000.

McEntee said he would be unable to release a list of the camps closed for several days, as the operation was being carried out by field men and the designation of individual camps was not now available here.

Gallup Poll Reveals: Nazi, British Peace Opposed Holds Officers Off for Hour

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 29.—Rumors of peace between Germany and England are almost certain to be revived if Hitler's invasion of the Soviet Union is successfully concluded in the next few weeks or months. Indeed, a number of isolationist leaders in the United States, notably Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, already have urged that Britain try to arrange a negotiated peace.

The majority of American voters interviewed just before the outbreak of the Nazi-Soviet conflict expressed overwhelming opposition to the idea that Britain should try to arrange a peace with Hitler even if she were permitted to keep all her empire intact.

One of the main reasons given by the majority is that "Hitler's peace promises couldn't be trusted," while those on the minority side argue chiefly that any kind of peace would be better than the "senseless" slaughter in Europe in which "nobody gains."

The issue put to voters in the survey, completed before the Nazi-Soviet war started, was as follows:

"If peace could be obtained today on the basis of Germany holding the countries she has conquered so far, and with Britain keeping the British empire as it now stands, would you be in favor of such a peace?

The results were:

Yes	29%
No	62%
Undecided	9%

Women interviewed in the survey proved to be much more in favor of the peace idea than men. Whereas only 24 per cent of men interviewed thought Britain should make peace with Germany now, 34 per cent of the women thought so.

April Survey Results. A similar survey conducted in April brought results closely resembling today's. In that study 29 per cent of voters with opinions on the subject thought Britain should try to get together with Germany to work up some sort of peace terms, while 71 per cent thought Britain should go on fighting.

Among those who think the peace idea should be given a try the most typical comments are that if some kind of peace can be made the United States won't have to worry about getting into the war, that Hitler could administer the affairs of Europe better than anybody else and should be given a chance at it, and that Britain should get out now while she still has something left.

'One-Man Gang' Holds Officers Off for Hour

North Highlands Resident Terrorizes Neighbors, Blocks Traffic.

The "one-man gang" of fiction broke loose yesterday afternoon when a resident of North Highland avenue held a squad of city police at bay for more than an hour with a 38 caliber pistol, tied up traffic and terrorized the neighborhood.

Finally overpowered, the man was listed at headquarters as J. R. Fincher, 34, of 573 North Highland avenue. He was charged with drunk and disorderly, resisting arrest, pointing a pistol at an officer, fighting, and carrying a gun without a license.

Summoned to the address shortly after 5 o'clock Radio Patrolmen Y. H. Allen and W. E. Belcher found Fincher "guarding" the entrance of his residence and threatening passersby, they said.

Calling for aid through their police radio, the officers brought Assistant Chief A. J. Holcomb, Captain W. A. Weaver, Patrolmen V. G. Oakes and J. D. Adams and Detectives R. Bradford and J. E. Jackson to the scene.

Chief Holcomb, upon arrival, engaged Fincher in a conversation while Oakes and Adams grabbed him from behind. Once disarmed, Fincher did not resist.

Greeks Hungry 'V' for Victory As Nazis Take Urged on All Away All Food Pro-Britons

ANKARA, Turkey, June 27.—(Delayed)—(P)—Foreigners arriving from Athens today declared that many Greeks are going hungry while Greek wheat and potatoes are being shipped to Germany.

Some travelers said there is "real famine" in Greece. Dairy cattle in the Athens area have been slaughtered for beef, leaving a milk shortage, they said, and some estimated that more than half of the Greek population was not getting enough food for subsistence.

Greek newspapers have adopted a pro-German attitude and are attacking King George II, the late Dictator John Metaxas and the democracies, and are blaming the Greek disaster on "the faithless British," the travelers report.

Back Wages Paid By Georgia Firms

Restitution totaling $6,578.06 has been paid by two Georgia firms to 224 employees, representing the difference between wages and overtime pay received and what they were entitled to since October 24, 1938, under the fair labor standards act, it was announced yesterday by J. R. McLeod, regional director of the wage and hour division, Department of Labor.

The larger amount was paid by Auto Supply Company, Inc., Columbus, when $4,137.76 was paid to 16 employees, representing the difference between wages and overtime pay received and what they were entitled to since October 24, 1938, under the fair labor standards act, it was announced yesterday by J. Sign Is in Evidence in German-Occupied Lands.

LONDON, June 30.—(P)—Sympathizers with the Allied cause throughout the Old World have been urged to adopt three dots and one dash—the letter "V"—it stands for—as their door-knock countersign and mutual pledge for victory.

"V's" for victory have been chalked on board fences and sidewalks in Britain for some time. British officials say they are likewise in evidence in German-occupied lands as a mark of their people's faith in ultimate triumph and to harass the Germans.

Colonel Reginald Brittan, in a BBC broadcast to occupied countries, suggests that the Morse "V"—three dots and a dash, be used whenever possible among Allied friends.

Knock on Door. "When you knock on a door, there is your knock," said Brittan. "If you call a waiter in a restaurant, call him with 'V' taps. Teach your friends the 'V' sound."

He then played the opening bars of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, which he called a theme song of "victory and freedom," and declared the rhythm of the Morse signal for "V" was employed within it.

"Here is courage and the will to live expressed in terms of inspired sound," Brittan asserted. "Germans sometimes play this symphony—they do not know what it means—but when you hear it you will hear Beethoven playing out the rhythm of victory and freedom, your rhythm."

Sign of Resistance. "It is a sign of resistance to tyranny and a sign of rhythm of a great European army which one day will sweep the Germans away like straws in a flood."

Avowing that "to Germans and Quislings it is indeed writing on the wall," Brittan said Germans were seeing "V" chalked on pavements, penciled on posters and scratched on the fenders of German cars.

It was said that flowers come up in a "V" pattern, that men salute one another in the "V" sign, separating fingers, and that field workers turn to village clocks as the hour of five is struck.

Travelers about Britain report that they have seen the symbol chipped in motor transport equipment and painted on plane wings, on doorways and fence posts.
